

SONS GETTING READY TO LEAVE HOPE CAMP

HOPE, B.C. (CP) — Village Chairman Paul Scherle said today the trekking Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are preparing to move.

Mr. Scherle said he asked the 1,300 Sons to leave here and sect leaders said they will go. He said he does not know where they will go.

The Sons are living in a Seventh-Day Adventist summer camp and the Adventists want the camp back before the pipes freeze, said Mr. Scherle.

3-WAY SESSION

Test Ban Talks Given Up

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union abandoned their efforts today to negotiate an end to nuclear testing by Jan. 1.

The three-power test-ban subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference held its last meeting before the conference goes into a Christmas recess.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin told the last three-power meeting that all the nuclear powers should stop testing by January 1, "regardless of whether we can reach agreement by that date or not."

Western officials said they regarded this as another hint that Russia is planning to declare a one-sided test suspension before the end of the year.

DETECTORS ARE KEY

The Western powers refuse to accept a ban on underground tests unless the Russians allow a certain number of on-site inspections a year to prevent cheating. The Russians have consistently rejected any on-site inspection, but have proposed the erection of three "black box" detectors in the Soviet Union to help keep check of suspicious earth tremors.

The disarmament conference resumes here on January 15. At the closing meeting of the test-ban subcommittee the United States called on the Soviet Union to take part in a detailed scientific review of the black box proposal.

Four Killed In Collapse Of Concrete

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (AP) — A fire, apparently set off by rescue workers' acetylene torches, threw a new barrier today in the way of crews trying to reach four men believed buried in the rubble of a rocket-test silo which collapsed Monday.

Workers said the fire ignited some timbers and tarpaulins. The fire was brought under control and no one was injured, but water from fire trucks nullified efforts to clear out the 250-foot-deep pit where the missing men were feared dead in 700 tons of crumpled concrete and steel.

The freshly poured concrete which set off a chain-reaction collapse Monday was the first of six segments designed to cap the $10,000,000 test cell. It crashed through floors placed about 50 feet apart in the huge hole, carrying additional tons of concrete and steel to the bottom.

Social Credit Winds Up Third

FINAL STANDING

McGeer (Lib.)	21,669
Atherton (PC)	8,784
Burns-Miller (SC)	8,447
Holland (NDP)	5,302

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Patrick McGeer, polling almost as many votes as his three opponents combined, swept the Vancouver Point Grey byelection for the Liberal party Monday night.

The three-seat provincial constituency had been solidly Social Credit for six years. Not for nine years had the provincial government lost a seat in a byelection.

Reg Atherton, 59, an accountant, pulled the Progressive Conservatives into second place with 8,784 votes to 8,447 for Mrs. Eve Burns-Miller, 62, the Social Credit candidate.

Antony Holland, 42, the New Democratic Party candidate, trailed with 5,302.

Dr. McGeer, who polled 21,669, will represent the riding in the provincial house in conjunction with Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Social Creditor Tom Bate.

WIN IN 1960

In the 1960 general election, the voting went this way: Mr. Bonner, 24,610; Mr. Bate, 23,550; Mrs. Buda Brown, 23,583; all Social Credit and all elected.

Mrs. Brown, whose death this summer forced the byelection, was minister without portfolio. The Liberals came next: F. C. Boyes, 17,438; Samuel Dumaresq, 15,167; Leslie Way, 14,827.

The CCF followed: Cliff Greer, 12,702; George Gibson, 12,158; Thomas Thomasen, 11,538.

The Progressive Conservatives trailed: Atherton, 8,774; Desmond Kidd, 6,433; Mrs. Mary Pope, 4,029.

Dr. McGeer's election Monday brings to five the number of Liberals in the B.C. legislature. There are 31 Social Crediters, 16 CCF-New Democratic Party members. There are no Progressive Conservatives.

CLAIM SECOND VICTORY

Liberals were hailing Dr. McGeer's victory as the second over Social Credit within a week.

On Dec. 12 Bill Rathie, a Liberal, won a four-way contest.

$65 MILLION WHEAT SALE TO CHINESE

OTTAWA (CP) — A new contract for the sale of 34,000,000 bushels of wheat to Communist China, valued at $65,000,000, was announced in the Commons today by Agriculture Minister Hamilton. He said the grain will be shipped from West Coast ports, including Prince Rupert, during the first half of 1963.

Mr. Hamilton's announcement indicated that Communist China was able to get improved credit terms on the new contract.

It will pay 25 per cent in cash, as in previous contracts, but the balance will be payable in one year instead of nine months.

Centennial Flashback ...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

DECEMBER 18

Many fine blocks of freestone were removed from the Hudson's Bay Company's warehouse today for construction of a monument in the public cemetery in memory of the late Mr. Carroll. The monument will be of the gothic style of architecture and will be seven feet six inches at the base and 16 feet in height. The blocks of stone to be used in its construction weigh between three and six tons.

The Rosedale, the ship that ran aground in Ross Bay, was finally towed into Esquimalt Harbor today. She was lashed between the Thames and the Sheet Anchor and towed by the gunboat Grappler. Most of her cargo is still on board. She will be beached shortly for repairs.

A sub-contractor and a small party of men left today aboard the schooner Explorer for Comox. The party will work southward on the Nanaimo-Comox road which is expected to be finished by the end of January.

A small, colored man was found lying dead early this morning at the corner of Broad and Johnson Streets. Cause of death is believed to be small-pox.

Friendship Theme as Talks Between Mac, JFK Begin

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan stressed close United States-British friendship in a meeting today under a brilliant sun.

A crowd estimated at 2,500 — Bahamians and visitors — watched from the flag-decked airport balcony and sidewalks as Kennedy's jet airliner rolled to a stop shortly before 11 a.m.

The plane had twice overflown Windsor field to kill time, having made a fast flight of less than two hours from Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland, near Washington.

Macmillan expressed pleasure at the weather here, a warm contrast with fall conditions in both Washington and London.

The prime minister said he had met 16 times with American presidents and he had found that "the most important and vital element of all such conferences was the close association between our two countries."

He reminded Kennedy that

Britain and the U.S. have been through "much together in the past" and said they looked forward with high hopes to the future.

Kennedy responded warmly to Macmillan's welcome, recalling that this is their sixth meeting during his own two years in the presidency. (See also page 5.)

The president said he was not sure the world was much better off after each of their meetings, but that he had benefited greatly from "the counsel and friendship you have shown to me."

LIKES CLIMATE

Kennedy also said he believed they did better with their talks when they had met in a warm climate and he described New Providence Island, site of the Bahama capital of Nassau, as a fitting place for this conference, "an island in the sun."

The president is staying at the home of Toronto financier E. P. Taylor, in the luxurious Lyford Cay development. Macmillan is staying next door at the home of Mrs. W. R. C. Holt. The original plan for the conference of Macmillan and Kennedy was for a general survey of the world after the Cuban crisis.

But that crisis has since been overshadowed by the Skybolt issue, a crucial one in Britain's budgetary planning, and divisions within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization such as European resistance to the American idea that ground forces should be built up to levels adequate for defence in conventional warfare.

The London Daily Mail reports Macmillan will ask Kennedy for a "stay of execution" of the Skybolt decision for at least three months.

This delay would enable Britain still to claim she is a nuclear power as she faces the six-nation European Common Market in the hard bargaining still coming up over her admission to the trading bloc.

Face Fact of Two Tongues Pearson Warns Commons

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — A national crisis looms over Canada, the Commons was told Friday. To avert it, Canadians must come to grips with the fact they live in a bicultural country.

Opposition Leader Pearson said the federal government should confer with the provinces in an effort to establish a full inquiry into Canada's bilingual problems.

Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny said the federal government had already taken steps in this connection. A Dominion-provincial conference would be called early in the new year to discuss national symbols.

"As long as the Canadian nation has not rallied around these symbols... we shall continue to see demonstrations such as the ones recently involving the president of the CNR (Donald Gordon)," he said.

Real Caouette, deputy leader of the Social Credit party, said Mr. Pearson "delivered the best speech of his career."

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said his party would give wholehearted support to efforts to establish mutual respect between the two cultures.

Mr. Pearson had said that the time was past for papering over the cracks in unity, and it was necessary to revert to the principles of Confederation — "our declaration of faith in the destiny of a united Canada."

"English-Canadians needed shock treatment to realize what was going on in Quebec and they got that shock through such groups as 'separatists.' Now both sides must do their part."

French-Canadians must continue to develop educational facilities to ensure there are enough qualified personnel to "exploit the opportunities and fulfill the responsibilities that develop."

English-Canadians, in managerial levels and in the federal public service "must accept the changes which are required to make a reality of full partnership," Mr. Pearson said.

Mr. Pearson's speech turned debate on an interim supply motion, up to now chiefly concerned with the Columbia River, into a day-long discussion of English-French culture.

Separatists Form New Quebec Party

MONTREAL (CP) — Division within the movement to have Quebec secede from the rest of Canada appeared several hours after separatist leader Marcel Chaput's announcement last night of formation of a new provincial political party.

Early today the separatist movement Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale issued a statement dissociating itself from the new party. RIN members who joined the party were threatened with expulsion.

The 44-year-old Chaput, once president of the RIN announced at a press conference the new party, called Le Parti Republicain du Quebec (Republican Party of Quebec), would seek independence for the province. He said he believes "fervently" the time has come for a union of the forces seeking separatism.

But the RIN said in its statement Mr. Chaput's decision to form a political party at this time "will slow the progress of the cause of independence."

The RIN said it will become a political party in spring, 1964, as was decided at its last general meeting.

For Some, No Gifts Off the Tree

When the annual Sunday School party at St. Alban's Anglican Church is held a couple of days after Christmas almost all the children will get gifts off a Christmas tree.

But there will be children from two classes for whom there will not be any gifts. They said they didn't want any this year.

Instead they gave the money that would have been spent on the gifts to the Times appeal for "Friendship Dollars for India."

The idea of giving a donation to the appeal instead of receiving Christmas presents was put to the children by their teachers, Mrs. A. E. Miller, 1439 Myrtle Ave. and her daughter, Miss Doris Miller.

There were hardly any objections and not one of the youngsters in the six-to-eight group had to be coaxed at all. They all wanted to participate in the donation for the less fortunate children of India.

And just as these youngsters want to help, so help is also coming from the very old. Nathan E. Waits of Sidney, who was 95 years old last July, has sent a $5 donation to the Times appeal.

These people, and all the others who have so far given a total of $7,367 this year, realize how worthwhile it is to support the work of the Unitarian Service Committee in India through the Times appeal.

The USC engages in relief and rehabilitation work in some of the most poverty-stricken parts of that country. To continue the work the USC relies on public contributions from Canadians.

Contributions should be sent to "Friendship Dollars for India," c/o The Times, 2631 Douglas, or should be left at the Bank of Montreal, Douglas and Yates.

The Times will publish an acknowledgment of all donations and the USC will send an official receipt later for income tax purposes.

THIS WORLD OF OURS People and Things

(Times News Services)

DAYTON, Ohio—How much can be put into a girdle?

Most wearers of the device feel lucky if they can get themselves into them, but for two women arrested in a discount store here Monday the abdominal bindings served as storehouses of merchandise.

One woman, who weighs about 240 pounds, had stuffed into her girdle 43 pairs of women's hose, 32 pairs of men's socks, 14 slips, five pairs of anklets and three shirts.

Another had enough room for herself and 33 pairs of women's hose, 20 pairs of men's socks, seven slips, a boy's cap, a pair of trousers and a set of girl's pajamas.

They were held on investigation of shoplifting.

LONDON—Canadian actor Christopher Plummer, 33, said today he has turned down an offer to play Elizabeth Taylor's lover in a picture playing Sir Alec Guinness' son.

He had been offered the part of Taylor's screen lover in the V.I.P.s the picture she has come to London to make.

"There seems to be so many delays in getting the V.I.P.s started," said Plummer, "that it began to look as if I wouldn't have time to make the other film."

The other film is The Fall of the Roman Empire with Sophia Loren, as well as Guinness.

PHILADELPHIA—Two persons hailed a cab Monday and were driven straight to the police station. The driver of the cab was George Sternberger, a highway patrolman on plainclothes duty hunting for holdup men.

Sternberger said a bag the two carried, containing 12 bottles of liquor, aroused his suspicions. The two, Julia Hart, 16, and Donald Wheeler, 21, were charged with burglary.

CLIFTON, N.J.—An Argentine pony, destined to be a pet for the seven children of Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy, today was in a government quarantine station here.

The 30-inch high, 100-pound pony arrived at New York's Idlewild Airport Monday. It will spend about 48 hours in quarantine and then be on its way to Washington, in plenty of time for Christmas.

The Kennedy children had better have a knack for something their father admitted he never could master—Spanish.

STUTTGART, Ark.—Joe Karkur reported the theft of 1,000 teeth from his dental laboratory in Stuttgart.

The teeth were valued at $1,200.

Noting a similar burglary of 4,000 teeth at Augusta, Ga., recently, Karkur said: "I think it's a teething ring."

MILWAUKEE—A 77-year-old man who was "stone-cold dead" one week ago was trying today to get out of the hospital in time to go home for Christmas.

George Skorgane, 77, of Mequon, stumped authorities at Lakeview Hospital here when he responded to a cardiac stimulant after collapsing at his home. Rescue squad members who brought him to the hospital said he was "stone cold, to all intents and purposes dead."

Dr. Robert Merwick, 27, a medical resident from Chicago, discovered Skorgane's heart was beating about once every 15 or 20 seconds.

"I gave him a cardiac stimulant, then pumped in glucose with a drug to raise the blood pressure," Merwick said. "We gave him oxygen and generally he showed improvement, although he was in a coma for three days."

Today the "dead" man was walking around the hospital, wondering if he would be out before Christmas.

LONDON—Prime Minister Macmillan is the vocalist on a Rock 'n' Roll record that is sweeping Britain.

The record was born at the Llandudno Conservative party conference last summer, when Macmillan, compared the Labor party's hesitancy to take a stand on the Common Market issue to an old music hall song, "She Didn't Say Yes."

Macmillan spoke the words of the song to the delegates. The first stanza goes:

"She didn't say yes, she didn't say no,
"She didn't say come and she didn't say go."

The speech was taped and broadcast and caught the ear of Nicholas Luard, who owns "Private Eye," a British satirical magazine.

Luard rounded up a chorus, guitars, drums and other instruments and transposed the recording of Macmillan's voice over the Rock 'n' Roll background.

"The boy has a great voice," Luard said today. "We can't print enough copies."

Macmillan's reaction was not known.

to the Tories in the light of the big rebuilding program they plan under Mr. Fulton at a leadership convention Jan. 24.

The NDP, too, was expecting to see a trend for the future at Point Grey.

Party leader Robert Strachan was predicting that Mr. Fulton's return would switch enough votes from the Socreds to the Tories to enable the NDP to win the next election.

But the NDP lost ground in Point Grey, finishing last with 7,000 fewer votes than it got in 1960.

'GOOD OMEN'

Nevertheless, Mr. Strachan still sees the Socred defeat as a good omen for his party, which he thinks the only one strong enough to be an alternative at the next election.

For the Liberals, the size of the victory was something of a surprise.

It has given new hope to their supporters that they might prove to be the alternative to Social Credit.

Point Grey has been a real stronghold for the Socreds, who held all three of its seats in 1960 and the previous election, 1956.

Before that there had been one Liberal and two Socreds, when Arthur Laing was elected in 1953.

Otherwise Point Grey has been either Conservative or Social Credit for 22 years.

The previous Liberal member had been Dr. George M. Weir, who held a seat there from 1933 until 1941.

ROCK 'N' ROLL disc jockey Alan Freed, of New York, who pleaded guilty Monday to accepting bribes from record companies, was fined $300 and given a six-month suspended jail sentence. He was accused of accepting a total of $30,650 in bribes from seven companies.

for mayor of Vancouver. His chief opponent, Ald. Halford Wilson, had been supported by the Social Credit.

Rathie's election sparked a dispute with Premier Bennett during an appearance here by the premier on behalf of Mrs. Burns-Miller.

The mayor-elect had said he would try to get an additional $5,000,000 from the provincial government for Vancouver. Mr. Bennett offered to call an election "right away" if Mr. Rathie would contest a South Okanagan seat against him. Mr. Rathie accepted and Mr. Bennett laughed off the suggestion.

RETAIN REVELSTOCK
It was the second byelection since the 1960 general election. Last September the NDP retained the Revelstoke seat by electing the widow of George Hobbs, the man who died in office.

There were 85,682 persons eligible to vote this time, fewer than were eligible during the 1960 general election. This time about 45,000 persons voted as opposed to 59,871 in 1960.

The winner admitted when it was all over:

"The name of McGeer certainly didn't hurt me."

"The name McGeer," he says was "the greatest thing in my favor."

But he declined to stress it during campaigning, stating:

"I'm not going around showing everyone pictures of Uncle Gerry."

UNCLE WAS SENATOR
Dr. McGeer's uncle was the late G. G. McGeer, provincial legislator, member of Parliament, senator and — twice — probably the most colorful and best loved mayor Vancouver ever had.

Like his famous uncle, who died in office during his second term as mayor, Dr. McGeer is beginning his political life on the provincial level.

Gerry McGeer, Winnipeg-born, an iron moulder by trade and lawyer by profession, was first elected to the B.C. legislature in 1916 and re-elected in 1933.

He was mayor of Vancouver in 1935-36, a reign remembered mainly for his reading of the riot act to unemployed mobs as they churned around the cenotaph in Victory Square.

Gerry McGeer was many things at once. In 1935 he resigned from the legislature to accept the Liberal nomination to the House of Commons and was elected. In 1940 he was re-elected. Five years later he was summoned to the Senate.

PARTY LEADERS SHOW MIXED REACTIONS

'Demand for a Change'—Strachan

Reaction to the Point Grey byelection ranged today from Liberal jubilation to Social Credit sobriety.

"It's a dramatic breakthrough," said Liberal leader Ray Perrault.

"This indicates the tide has turned. There is a whole new spirit in the Liberal party."

He called it "a real workers' victory" won on a shoestring campaign largely through volunteer work.

Mr. Perrault said the result could be the forerunner of a Liberal "sweep" in the next general election.

Premier Bennett could not be reached for comment, but Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who is one of the three MLAs for Point Grey, said:

"Naturally we would have preferred to win, but any time you lose you are encouraged to do better."

"It is good to get these storm signals in plenty of time so that they can be corrected."

Mr. Bonner said it had been "a shockingly light vote."

He said one thing which encouraged him was the poor showing of the New Democratic Party. Social Credit candidate Eve Burns-Miller captured a lot of NDP votes in the traditionally-left East end of the riding, Mr. Bonner said.

But NDP leader Robert Strachan saw the result in a different light.

"It's the trend," he said. "The important thing is the demand for a change demonstrated by the voters of Point Grey."

Mr. Strachan said in the last provincial election the Liberals finished second in seven ridings, but the NDP was second in 25.

Point Grey was one of the ridings in which the Liberals were second.

"If the pattern continues it makes it almost certain there will be an NDP victory."

Mr. Strachan conceded the NDP had lost votes in Point Grey, but said that was "not important."

"We held a good vote in a riding in which we have never won a seat."

The Conservatives saw a good omen in their increase of some 2,000 votes.

Works Minister E. Davie Fulton, coming back to B.C. to be provincial party leader next year, said the result showed there is a revitalization of the Conservative party.

He said the result "destroyed the myth that a vote against the Socreds in the next election will elect the NDP."

"Naturally I would have preferred to see our candidate win. But the vote shows the people are aware the Social Credit government no longer is capable of providing the answers to the problems of B.C."

British Commandos, artillery and Indian Gurkhas were airlifted to areas near the borders of Indonesian Borneo today following a reported pirate attack on police Monday.

Lubuan is being used as a jumping-off point for British forces sent into action against rebels who staged an abortive uprising in nearby Brunei last week.

Earlier in Singapore, a British Army spokesman said British troops searching dense jungle in North Sarawak killed six rebels, wounded four and captured 194.

The paintings, valued at about $3,000, were recovered by the RCMP less than a week after the theft. But they were held as evidence for a court case in Vancouver.

Curator Colin Graham said the canvases are in good condition but the frames are scratched.

The paintings included Harbor at Fecamp by Eugene Boudin, Portrait of a Young Girl by George Richmond and Forest Stream by Louis Cable.

'Full Lunch Bucket' or Preservation?

By ARTHUR MAYSE

British Columbia's hot-potato conservation issue—whether to log Strathcona Park's massive firs or let them stand—reached the stage of public debate Monday evening in the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association clubhouse on Goldstream Flats.

There, before an outdoors-minded audience peppered with parks branch officers and salted with lumbermen, secretary-director Alex Hendry of Victoria Plywoods Ltd. and provincial parks planner Robert Ahrens argued the pros and cons of a modified use program for the 504,000-acre Strathcona wilderness.

For half an hour after they had concluded their formal arguments, Mr. Ahrens and Mr. Hendry coped with a crackling question barrage from 350 club members and visitors.

While the debate was confined to the logging question, the less-publicized matter of legalized intrusion by mining interests was touched on by Mr. Ahrens during the question period. He pointed out that legislation which sanctions prospecting in Strathcona also allows the government to buy up park mineral properties under development.

Over-Cutting

Warning that British Columbia is heavily over-cutting her available fir stands, Mr. Hendry suggested that the province could benefit from the experience of other lands.

"In Europe," he said, "we find that most forests are a combination park, game preserve and timber source. In the United States where there are national parks covering vast areas and including large tracts of merchantable timber, we find moves on foot to transfer portions to national forests so that they may be logged.

"Even in Canada, we find the Canadian Institute of Forestry discussing the question of whether we can afford to lock up huge tracts of valuable timber in our parks."

Inadequate Fir

Sawmills, according to Mr. Hendry, have turned to hemlock as their principal raw material because there isn't enough fir to fill their requirements.

"Douglas fir is the main constituent of our plywood industry," he said, "and is likely to remain so because of its superior strength."

"Further, if we are to retain and expand our overseas markets for this product, we must continue to manufacture it of Douglas fir, as our competitors in the United States have an abundance of this material and are not likely to change to any other."

Mr. Hendry offered controlled logging by crown company as a source of revenue for park development. Logging, he argued, would provide needed access roads and campsites in Strathcona. As to objections based on "the unsightly mess" logging creates, he saw this as an erroneous conception.

"It overlooks the speed with which nature heals the scars. Further, a young growing forest is much more desirable than a mature one. It harbors more game and is much more valuable from a water conservation viewpoint."

He concluded with the assurance that he was not advocating "alienation of the park, but its orderly development."

"Although it is the desire of conservationists to see it preserved in its present state in perpetuity," Mr. Hendry said, "this is impossible."

"Nature is continuously changing our environment, and part of this change is the growth and death of all things, including trees. In spite of our best efforts, Strathcona Park in 200 or 300 years will not be as it is today. Isn't it only common sense to use its valuable assets to create the jobs we sorely need?"

Laughter, Jeers

Mr. Hendry's repeated contention that Strathcona's fir forests would over-mature and die as a unit was greeted with laughter and jeers by his woods-wise audience. Outdoorsmen rose to cite Cathedral Grove as an example of a tract where very old evergreens and new growth share the same land.

"Are you trying to tell us those big trees will all fall down together?" one dissenter challenged.

Asked how large a commercial enterprise the Strathcona fir stands would maintain, Mr. Hendry said they would support a plywood plant "the size of B.C. Forest Products." Revenue produced would run $15 per thousand board feet over production costs which would include road-building.

Mr. Ahrens, assistant parks branch director for the provincial recreation and conservation department, stressed the distinction between park and forest management.

Different Eyes

Forester, logger and conservation, he told his audience, see a wooded tract through different eyes.

'Very Active Press' Wins JFK Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said Monday night a free society could not be governed without a very active press.

In a radio-television report on his first two years in office, Kennedy said Soviet Premier Khrushchev's totalitarian system of secrecy gives him many advantages but he is under "a terrific disadvantage" in not having "the abrasive quality of the press" applied to him daily.

"Even though we never like it," the president said, "and even though we wish they did not write it, and even though we disapprove, there isn't any doubt that we could not do the job at all in a free society without a very, very active press."

Dief Not Planning Visit With Kennedy

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday he has no plans to visit President Kennedy following a meeting with Prime Minister Macmillan in The Bahamas Dec. 21.

The Diefenbaker-Macmillan meeting will follow two days of talks in The Bahamas between Mr. Macmillan and the U.S. president.

for public enjoyment, Mr. Ahrens saw "as a use which by its very nature, excludes other uses."

Removal of one component or disturbance of the environment destroys the wilderness.

"Talk of selective logging in such areas so as to leave them natural or unimpaired is unconvincing," he said, "obviously so in coastal forests. The logging operator on the coast works with heavy, powerful machinery in big trees. To expect him to log an area being preserved, and to leave it unscathed, is simply to expect the impossible. This does not prevent some people from promising the impossible."

'Much Poorer'

Attacking what he termed the "full lunch bucket" argument against preservation of natural-area parks, Mr. Ahrens said:

"If in our headlong pursuit of miles of blacktop, two cars in every family, and a boat with a trailer, we sell ourselves short of accessible natural landscape, our standard of living is not as high as it could be. Collectively, we would be much poorer without these parks. Can we afford them? Let us ask, can we afford not to have them?"

Underlining his stand that parks branch concern is for "preservation of a specific kind of recreational environment, not the practice of industrial forestry," Mr. Ahrens suggested that the loggers' record for preserving forest health is not good.

"The forest inventory of B.C.," he said, "shows that 19,000,000 acres now classified as forest land is either unsatisfactorily restocked, or is covered with weed species, or for some other reason is not in good health. If loggers, foresters and others are concerned with the practice of good forestry, perhaps their attention should be directed not to parks, but to these areas."

"It is questionable that the industry which has managed your forest lands is qualified to manage your parks."

Chairman was Garry Williams, president of the 1,200-member fish and game group.

HOTEL, MOTEL PLAN OKAYED

A total of 63 acres of farmland adjacent to Beaver Lake was rezoned by Saanich council Monday for use as a hotel and motel centre.

The rezoning application, submitted by Victoria lawyer Foster Isherwood, was approved following a public hearing at which no opposition was given.

Mr. Isherwood hopes to develop the site as a large hotel centre with swimming pools and other forms of recreational activities.

The Saanich advisory planning commission has approved but insists on a minimum of 250 feet setback from the existing highway for buildings and the development of adequate parking areas.

The property is situated on the west side of the Patricia Bay Highway south of Beaver Lake.

A-Arms Pressure Denied by Dief

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker denied Monday there is any pressure on the government to acquire nuclear weapons.

He was replying in the Commons to Barry Mather (NDP—New Westminster) who referred to reports of "mounting pressure" on Canada to "acquire such weapons."

Mr. Mather sought assurance that any government decision will be referred to Parliament or the public.

"There is no pressure being placed against the Canadian government," the prime minister replied. He said that made the rest of Mr. Mather's question "inoperative."

Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver Burrard) then tried it his way: Would the government refer the matter to Parliament or the public before a decision is announced?

That implies that the government has decided on such a course, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

TRIES AGAIN
So Mr. Berger tried again: Had the government decided to acquire nuclear weapons?

Mr. Diefenbaker answered that government policy has been brought to the attention of Parliament and the public, as will any change in that policy.

"What policy?" shouted someone from the back benches. Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson asked Associate Defence Minister Sevigny whether there is "a useful role" for the Bômarc missile and the Voodoo jet interceptor without equipping them with nuclear warheads.

Speaker Marcel Lambert intercepted the question and ruled it out of order as being argumentative.

Mr. Thompson protested that the answer could be a simple yes or no, and there was "no ulterior motive" behind the question, but Mr. Lambert still would not allow it.

That's the spirit! While most folks deck the halls with colourless gins, you serve up Seagram's Gin with its hint of amber colour. The difference, of course, is dryness. By ageing Seagram's Gin longer we remove unwanted sweetness and perfumery. As the gin becomes crisply dry, Nature supplies that amber tint. So remember, 'tis the season to serve Seagram's. Earthquake in Point Grey

THE POINT GREY POLL yesterday was not a by-election. It was an earthquake. The Bennett Government has taken its worst blow since it came to office ten years ago. The Liberal Party has achieved a remarkable breakthrough in traditionally hostile territory. Mr. Fulton's adventure in provincial politics has begun with calamity. The first trial of the New Democratic Party in a metropolitan riding is still more disappointing.

If the Point Grey results had been close it might have been said Dr. McGeer, the Liberal candidate, won on his own outstanding personality. Certainly his high reputation helped him but it could not account for his three-to-one victory over the nearest opponent, the Conservative Mr. Atherton.

When the Social Credit candidate Mrs. Burns-Miller ran third with less than a fifth of the total vote it is clear that one of the largest constituencies in Canada voted mainly to repudiate the Bennett Government. Short of a general election there could hardly have been a more significant test of the Government's strength and the answer is an overwhelming vote of no-confidence.

In some constituencies the Government might attribute such a disaster to the vagaries of by-elections, but not in Point Grey. This was regarded as solid Social Credit ground, the private bailiwick of Attorney-General Bonner, almost his pocket borough. Yet it rejects the Government's candidate almost with contempt even though Mr. Bennett threw all his prestige, campaign funds and promises into the fight. No one can doubt that the Government, after a decade of sunshine, is now in deep trouble.

It does not follow, of course, that any other party has been assured of victory in a general election.

Mr. Perrault is too optimistic, perhaps naturally so, on the night of his triumph when he says that Point Grey forecasts a Liberal sweep. While his group in the legislature has grown to five members, it has a long way to go before it will be in sight of a majority.

The Conservative Party starts from scratch with no members and the complete failure of Mr. Fulton's supposed magic in Point Grey which was once regarded as a generally Conservative area.

Mr. Strachan hides his disappointment by saying that the old CCF never won there anyway, but the New Democratic vote, a little more than five thousand, unquestionably is far less than he expected. All that can reasonably be read into the by-election figures is the prospect of confusion in provincial politics rather like that of federal politics. Much will depend, however, on the date of the next provincial election.

It is pretty well known that Mr. Bennett was planning a snap appeal to the voters next spring before the new Conservative campaign could get off the ground, and as a bold political gambler he may yet decide to take that dangerous plunge. Nevertheless, Point Grey must give him pause and if he remains in office until the end of his normal term almost anything can happen in the interval.

No one can foresee the shape of politics, provincial or federal, two years hence. All we know for certain now is that the Social Credit regime, an accident at the beginning and later the strongest political machine ever known in British Columbia, has received its first intimations of mortality. It must be strong indeed to recover from this shock.

Charles Laughton

ANOTHER OF THE STARS who lifted the moving picture business to the plane of high art has gone. Charles Laughton, master of character portrayal, has taken his final curtain call with quiet courage.

He has left behind a host of memories which will be recalled wherever character acting is discussed. His was a special talent—an ability to make his subjects live and become part of the experience of theatre-goers who saw him.

The many successes which followed his performance as Captain Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty" and as Henry VIII have served to give permanence to the reputation Charles Laughton established in the film version of the famous British naval incident and as the imperious Tudor.

Once or twice in a generation an actor of such capabilities leaves his mark in this particular form of art. That made by Mr. Laughton will be long remembered.

'World Without Want'

MR. PAUL HOFFMAN IS NO starry-eyed optimist. He is a realist with a practical businessman's way of looking at things. But, according to reviews of his recent book "World Without Want," he believes the condition defined in that title could be achieved by the end of this century.

Credibility is given to his belief by his record as head of the post-war Marshall Plan. And evidence is furnished by his experiences in 67 countries in the last four years. As managing director of the United Nations' Special Fund he is in a position to view the possibilities more clearly than most.

Mr. Hoffman does not believe in handouts. He sees hope for nations which can be taught to develop their resources with useful prompting and direction from experts who understand the problem.

He tells the needy that there is no magic formula which will turn poor countries quickly into rich countries. At the same time there is an ingredient which can spur progressive development—skilled people.

The head of the UN Special Fund adds that foreign capital is needed to assist such countries—and a $3 billion increase per year in the flow of capital, private and public, is required from countries which can afford it to those which need it if the Western industrial countries are themselves to survive in freedom.

He has found 20 countries which could reach the takeoff point for graduation from the class of "underdeveloped" in the next 10 years provided the proper courses were pursued.

Apart from the hard consideration of cash, the requisites are trained people. In backward lands he has found a deep hunger for education, even simple, primary education.

Given a growing body of informed and knowledgeable citizens, including skill-trained people, the gradual process of development could get under way—a process leading to the defeat of poverty and the creation of stable government.

Here is a man who points to a constructive, positive approach to the great problem of have-nots in this world. In the light of scientific statistics indicating the overcrowding that will come unless population explosions are checked, he presents an optimistic vision of the future.

But it is a vision which can be realized only with education—education in its broadest sense, education in the specialized field of skills and education to prevent the human family from crowding itself out of the world it inhabits.

Going to College on Relief

SHOULD RELIEF BE USED TO finance a person's college education?

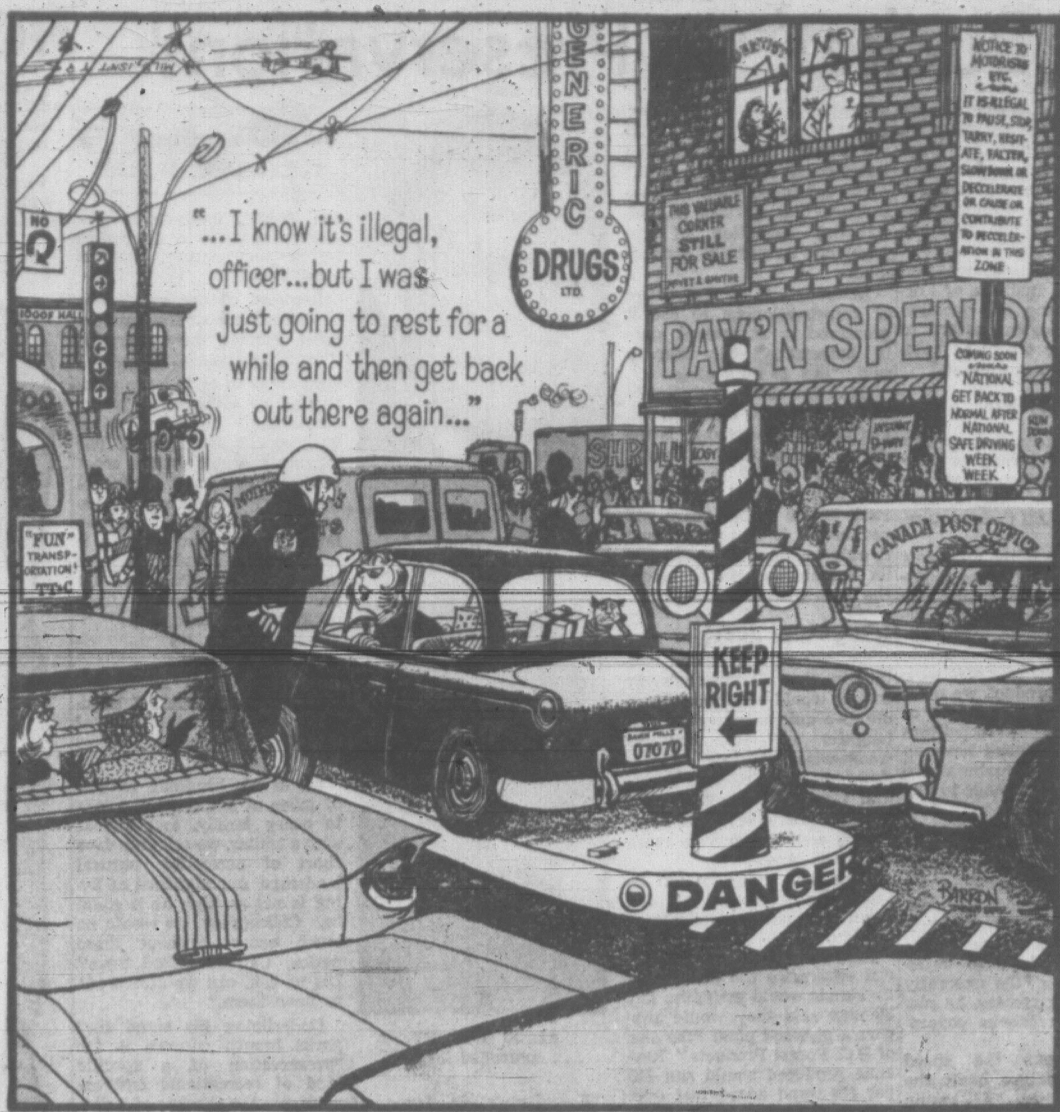

Officials of Union County welfare department, Elizabeth, New Jersey, may offer a qualified answer, but they can cite two cases where it paid.

The students were two mothers whose educations had been interrupted by matrimony and family raising. They separated from their husbands, but each had three children. In consequence they required assistance from the welfare office.

With funds provided by that office and auxiliary agencies, the two were able to complete their college courses and now are self-supporting.

There seem to be two morals to the story. The first involves a warning to young people to persevere with their education courses before getting married. The other suggests that "unorthodox" expenditure for some relief cases more than pays for itself.

On the basis of the showing of the two recipients, Union County is considering further experiments of a similar nature.

FROM PARIS

By ROBERT STEPHENS

Continuing Search for a Solution

MR. MACMILLAN is visiting President Kennedy at an unhappy moment for the British Government.

Three of the main pillars of the Prime Minister's foreign policy have been badly shaken. The future of Britain's independent nuclear deterrent is jeopardized by the uncertainty about the Skybolt missile. The prospects of British entry into the European Common Market are clouded by the rigid attitude of France in the Brussels negotiations and the indifference shown by President de Gaulle in his message last week to the new French Assembly.

The promotion of an East-West détente, beginning with a nuclear test-ban treaty, has made little progress and, since Cuba, the scope of British initiative in this direction seems to have shrunk.

But these frustrations are not, whatever Mr. Dean Acheson may have said, a peculiarly British misfortune. They are a reflection of great changes that have begun to take place or are now impending in the world pattern of power.

Unpleasant Truth

Two years ago, when Mr. Khrushchev gave the United Nations his "troika" definition of a world of three parts—the Communist camp, the Western camp and the neutrals—it was a crude approximation to an unpleasant truth.

But already the idea of three great international blocs has begun to lose whatever validity it once had. The Communist bloc itself is increasingly split between Russia and China and within the Russian orbit the Eastern European States have greater freedom to follow their own national ways.

The conflict between China and India has abruptly shattered the cohesion of the Afro-Asian countries and some of the basic assumptions of non-alignment. The "neutrals" were never a bloc but never have they looked less like one than now.

FROM FRESNO, CAL.

Stevenson and the 'Notorious Article'

AS THE WEST breeds and burgeons beyond the wit of man or Governor Brown to control, it certainly has mammoth problems of its own that might charitably exempt it from much concern with the world beyond its borders.

In the last few days I have listened to all sorts of men, from lawyers to lettuce growers, whose nights are haggard with the threat of a monorail system in teeming Los Angeles, the steep decline of the Selinas Valley as the salad bowl of America, the idea of distributing contraceptives to people on relief, and the sudden absence of a Republican leader.

But there are days when disorder or political betrayal transcend the daily round; and Fresno in the Central Valley between the Coast Range and the Sierras, is one with Manchester and Washington. This was such a day.

The papers were black with the London fog and the alerting of "200 London hospitals against the chance of a major disaster." But after a sympathetic shake of the head, and the worrisome thought that industry might soon combine with the Pacific fogs to produce a similar hazard here, the ranchers and the lawyers and the business men reverted to the main topic of the day: which, surprisingly, is the feud that swirls around Mr. Adlai Stevenson.

The now notorious article on the Cuban crisis in the "Saturday Evening Post" which ascribes to Stevenson the role of a man of Munich, will do him more harm in the West than anywhere else. Partly because Stevenson, in spite of the accident of his birth in Los Angeles, is to most of the West an alien type, a smooth "on the one hand—the other hand" trimmer, seemingly far removed from the nostalgic virility of Wyatt Earp or Senator Goldwater.

This, of course, is a reflex of the far Right, but the Westerners, from New Mexico round to Seattle, are far more Rightist about the United Nations than their voting record shows. They are uneasy about daily negotiations with the enemy, and any Westerner of either party who came out for the admission of Communist China would commit political suicide.

The apparent contradiction that in the last Democratic convention California alone of the big states stood fast for Stevenson, and gave Governor Brown the passing insult of 1½ votes, is a defensive reaction of the liberal Democrats in this state, a plucky attempt to give strength to their defiance of the prevailing mores. In other words, there is a strong minority loyalty to Adlai, and universal Republican distrust of him.

On paper, even on White House note-paper, the record has now been set straight. Mr. Stevenson did not oppose the blockade, but supported it. He did not advocate a trade of European (including Turkish) bases for the removal of the missiles from Cuba. The President has given him "fullest confidence" and "deeply regrets the unfortunate stir over the statements contained in the "Saturday Evening Post" article."

But there are haunting charges that remain unexcused. The President has not denied that of the emergency cabinet and the advisers brought in, Stevenson alone "dissented from the consensus," defined by Mr. McNamara, that the blockade should be a first step that could lead to an air strike and possibly an invasion.

It is also not denied that Stevenson's tough speech in the Security Council was written in the main by Mr. Arthur Schlesinger.

If this article had been written by a free-wheeling Washington outsider it would be cheered by the lunatic fringe out here, and there end. But it bears, alongside the name of Mr. Stewart Alsop, the "by line" of Charles Bartlett, a reporter who since he introduced Mr. Kennedy to his wife, has remained the President's closest newspaper crony.

(Mr. Bartlett in effect denied that Mr. Kennedy was the source of the story, saying that "it would be senseless for a President to use a newspaper man who has been publicly identified as a personal friend to convey a position or deliver an attack for which he could not himself be responsible.")

The suspicion worries serious Democrats here, and elates Republicans, that there is a leisurely White House plot not to scuttle Stevenson but to tolerate the notion of him as a controversial figure to the point where he might decide his usefulness as a servant of the Administration was over.

This devious interpretation is incidentally the "consensus" of the White House press corps which accompanied the President today on his weekend junket to California. (By arrangement with The Guardian)

Who's Paying?

Premier Bennett is offering to pay the expenses of the Freedomite delegation to Ottawa, travelling first class.

Many people who have to travel coach would be very happy to travel tourist class, which provides every comfort.

Has Mr. Bennett never heard of tourist class, or must we assume he is paying the expenses out of his own pocket?

Pensioners' Hall

In regards to Mr. Davey's suggestion that the city buy the Sirocco for the pensioners, this building would not be suitable for the old people owing to so many stairs. We, the Old Age Pensioners, Victoria, No. 1, with a membership of 800, would like the city to consider buying the Victoria Ballroom which can be purchased for far less than the Sirocco, and would make an ideal hall having no stairs—which means everything for these people.

If the government had looked at the problem through eastern eyes, as Senator David Croll suggests, the present situation might have been avoided.

Christmas Pets

Now that the season of gift-giving is with us, may we suggest that it is better not to give small kittens to small children. Kittens are very delicate creatures and the handling and excitement often results in a frightened and sick little animal which is sad for all concerned. The lovely cuddly toys available make an ideal gift until the child is older.

May we also remind pet owners going away for Christmas to make adequate provision for the care of their pet. Many are reported lost after each holiday season.

We would warn people not to feed their cat or dog poultry bones. These splinter easily and can cause internal injury or death.

'Christianity in Schools'

If the "preaching of Christianity in schools is an infringement of religious freedom" (Dec. 10, 1962), what can be said for the teaching of evolution in some schools? Is not this just as offensive to children who have been taught by their parents to believe the creation story of the Bible? Why emphasize the one without the other?

...REPORTING

OTTAWA—A great deal of thinking on Canada's defence posture, or lack of it, is being done by Liberal MPs who are not wholly satisfied with the official defence policy of their party.

Two key words in their mental labor are "credibility" and "alternative."

Assumption number one is that the Russia won't attack so long as they believe the West is united and determined to resist (vide Cuba). Therefore it follows that Canadian policy should not weaken the credibility in Russian eyes of a solid NATO front backed by military strength that the West will use if pushed too far.

The Liberal critics maintain, and I believe correctly, that the government has weakened this credibility: (1) by backing at acceptance of nuclear warheads that were designed for the Bomarc, Falcon and Honest John missiles already in the hands of our air and ground troops; (2) by being in default since Nov. 1 on its commitment of the RCAF air division in Europe to a nuclear strike-reconnaissance role, and (3) by its weak and dilatory support of the U.S. during the Cuban crisis.

This small group is vigorously putting forward its views—privately, to Liberal leader Pearson and other key Grits, and publicly, as in the speech that defence critic Paul Hellyer made a week ago to a Liberal group at Walkerton, Ont.

Hellyer, speaking solely as a private MP, went beyond party policy when he advocated acceptance of nuclear arms for the Bomarc and the Voodoos in Canada—as well as for the CF-104s of the air division in Europe.

He was careful to point out that the only substantive action required would be the signing by Canada of a bilateral agreement on atomic arms with the U.S., as most other NATO countries have done. The weapons would remain under U.S. custody, and would be released to Canadian forces only if and when a need arose.

While official Liberal policy is against a nuclear role for Canada, the Liberals reluctantly accept the commitment to a strike role for the air division, entailing arming the 104s with small tactical atomic bombs. They reject nuclear arms for Canadian forces in Canada. Pearson has stated that if there is a need to deploy nuclear weapons on Canadian soil, U.S. forces should be given permission to do so.

The current reassessment of Liberal policy also searches for alternatives to escape the dilemma of accepting nuclear arms or wading on our commitments to the U.S. and NATO.

The MPs are asking, "Should Canada not leave atomic defences—Bomarc and nuclear-armed interceptors—to the U.S. and make its defence contribution in other fields?" But a second question, "What fields?" demands a prior answer.

Their thinking points to a greater contribution of conventional forces, greater emphasis on radar surveillance against bombers and missiles.

Admittedly the picture is fuzzy—partly because of changing American attitudes. There is more than a hint that the U.S. no longer needs or wants the assistance of other nations in the nuclear role.

U.S. State Undersecretary George Ball told NATO parliamentarians that "massive retaliation" is dead; that the new U.S. thinking contemplates "the widest range of possible retaliatory measures," and that "the most urgent need" is "more effective conventional forces."

Hellyer's views may be quickly outmoded by events—a good reason for the Liberals not to abandon their anti-nuclear position hastily.

Red China Threat 'Greatest' — JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy said Monday night that Red China, not Russia, is this decade's greatest threat to world peace.

The president said "we would be far worse off—the world would be—if the Chinese dominated the communist movement."

Kennedy made the statement in a radio and television interview covering his first two years as president, which he said had given him "great satisfaction."

Kennedy said "I don't think there is a need" for a meeting between him and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev now, and "I think he probably feels the same way."

Because of Cuba, "it is going to be some time before it is possible for us to come to any real understanding with Mr. Khrushchev."

BETTER OFF

Without minimizing the danger of Russia's goal of world communism, Kennedy said "we are better off with the Khrushchev view than we are with the Chinese communist view, quite obviously."

"But Mr. Khrushchev does not wish us well, unfortunately," he added.

Rather than trying to widen the rift between Moscow and Peking, the president said, attention should be given to bolstering the cause of freedom by helping suffering areas of the world.

"I think that anybody who looks at the fatality lists on atomic weapons and realizes that the Communists have a completely twisted view of the United States, and that we don't comprehend them, that is what makes life in the 60s hazardous," he said.

If it were not for Communist expansion policies, there could be a "long period of peace," Kennedy said.

THREATENED WORLD

But as long as Russia and China threaten the world, he declared, the United States and its allies must bear the responsibility of opposing them. He continued, "we can't lay it down and I don't see how we're going to lay it down in this century."

"There is no real reason why the United States and the Soviet Union, separated by so many thousands of miles of land and water, both rich countries, both with very energetic people, should not be able to live in peace," Kennedy said.

"But it is... constant determination which the Chinese show in the most militant form, and which the Soviets have also shown, that they will not settle for that kind of a peaceful world, but must settle for a Communist world—that is what makes the real danger; the combination of these two systems in conflict around the world in a nuclear age is what makes the 60s so dangerous."

Kennedy said that while the showdown over Cuba taught the Communists something of U.S. determination, great dangers still exist.

"One mistake can make this whole thing blow up," he said.

CAMERA BEST

The president discounted any real chance in the foreseeable future for an international inspection system to enforce a nuclear test ban or general disarmament. For the time being, he said, the aerial camera "is actually going to be our best inspector."

The missile defences of both the United States and Russia have reached the point of being able to hit "a bullet with a bullet," he said, but this does not make an effective anti-missile system because no missile has been developed to separate genuine missiles from decoys.

Kennedy said he is opposed to the development of independent nuclear powers in Europe, warning that the spread of nuclear strength could bring on a "full" war that would leave 150,000,000 dead in the first 18 hours of conflict.

Kennedy also rejected the Skybolt ballistic missile program, saying its projected $2.

Brazil covers almost half of South America and has about half its total population—74,000,000 people in 3,286,000 square miles.

$500,000,000 cost would be higher than the security benefits it would bring.

WESTERN DEFENCE

Kennedy told western Europe it should do more to help Western defences through conventional means and leave the nuclear deterrent to the U.S.

"Why duplicate what we have already done and are doing in western Europe today, as long as our guarantees are good?" he said.

If the U.S. helped France become a nuclear power, then Italy, West Germany and Belgium also might demand help. Soon security would be threatened by as many as 30 nuclear powers firing off weapons under different conditions.

"That isn't in our interest or, in my opinion, is the interest of peace or the interest of western Europe."

As for the Skybolt, on which Britain has pinned its nuclear future, Kennedy said the U.S. has already spent billions of dollars on Polaris and Minuteman ballistic missiles and now is planning new advances in the missile field.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Which Way Is Up?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Earlier this year, when the tourist season was in full bloom here, I attempted as a public service to explain how Congress runs an elevator.

I did this because many visitors to the capitol were winding up on the wrong floor.

Oftentimes, that can be more interesting than winding up on the right floor. But, as a general rule, it is better to know where you're wrong.

The confusion stemmed from the fact that the floors of the capitol were designated on the elevator signal panel by letters of the alphabet—"B," "F," "P" and "G."

Suppose, for example, that you wanted to go to the ground floor. If you boarded an elevator and told the operator "G, please," he would take you to the top floor.

The reason is that "G" stands for "gallery." In order to get to the ground floor, you would have to ask for "F," which stands for "first."

The ground, or "F-for-first" floor usually is called the "street" floor. There is, however, no "S" on the signal panel. If there were, it could stand for "subway."

U.S. Leader In Car Use

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—West Germany is in 11th place in the world for number of automobiles per capita with 108 per 1,000 inhabitants, the Association of West German Automobile Manufacturers says.

In 1950, there were only 11 cars for every 1,000 West Germans, the association of manufacturers said.

Heading the world list are: United States, 421 per 1,000 persons; New Zealand, 310; Canada, 301; and Australia, 291. Sweden leads Europe with 192.

The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia share leadership of the Communist bloc with 20 automobiles per 1,000 persons, each.

Oil Restriction Blow to Canada

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Trade Minister Hees has put the best possible face on the U.S. order limiting imports of Canadian crude oil to the American market next year, but the fact remains that the presidential order proclaimed Monday is a considerable blow to the Canadian petroleum industry's hopes.

Bell

While the industry was hoping for an increase of from 15 to 25 per cent in total crude exports to the U.S., the new regulations will likely keep the figure closer to 4 per cent.

based on the second half of this year.

Some industry spokesmen say that the national oil policy production target of 800,000 barrels daily can still be fulfilled, despite the American slowdown order, provided the Canadian economy remains sound and domestic demand takes up the slack.

The Canadian oil allowance for the U.S. east of the Rockies has been set at 126,000 b/d for the first six months of 1963. Hope of increasing that figure in the second half is ruled out by a self-limiting feature of the new regulations. This provides that the more some refiners buy from Canada in the first half, the less will be the amount to be allocated to all refiners for purchase from all foreign sources in the second half of the year.

According to reports from Washington, the talks between Canadian and U.S. officials in Ottawa last week had no effect on the new regulations. Actually the regulations, as they now stand, were given to the press before the talks were even concluded for publication Monday.

Housing starts in Victoria dropped off sharply in November when only 53 new dwellings got underway, according to the figures of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

However, the starts total for the year to the end of November at 1,415 was well ahead of last year when only 1,265 starts were recorded at the same date.

For all B.C. urban centres, the November housing starts figure was 873, up 15 per cent over the same month last year with the largest gain taking place in Vancouver where apartment building starts were up 150 per cent over November 1961.

There were only 25 apartment units started in the Victoria area in November compared with an average of 61 per month in the first 10 months of this year.

ROYAL BANK ASSETS REACH RECORD HIGH

MONTREAL (CP) — Steady progress and record highs were announced by the Royal Bank of Canada Monday in its annual statement for the year ending Nov. 30, 1962.

Net profits this year were $21,492,367 or $3.23 a share against $20,759,814 or $3.12 a share for 1961.

The bank's total assets of $5,128,750,128, an increase of 174,139,872 over last year, are at the highest level ever reached by any Canadian bank.

Deposits also reached new highs, standing at $4,673,708,399 against $4,504,789,157 last year.

Total loans, excluding NHA mortgage loans, stand at a record figure of $2,350,047,114, up $280,049,655 over last year.

Record Export Sales Cut Trade Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — Record export sales in October have trimmed Canada's trade deficit to $36,700,000 for the first 10 months of the year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

With exports to the United States continuing to rise, total exports in October were $618,300,000, up 10.6 per cent from a year earlier, while imports totalled $371,600,000, up 3.1 per cent.

The October trade surplus—excess of exports over imports—totalled $47,100,000 reduced by more than half the deficit.

The 10-month deficit of $36,700,000 compares with a trade year.

January-October period of last year's surplus of $93,400,000 for the 10 months rose 8.6 per cent to $5,239,800,000 from $4,822,700,000 a year earlier while imports were up 11.6 per cent to $5,276,500,000 compared with $4,729,300,000.

In the January-October period, exports to the U.S. were up 19.3 per cent and imports from the U.S. were 14.8 per cent higher. In trade with the United Kingdom, exports in the 10 months were down 12 per cent while imports were 6.6 per cent lower.

This is the trade picture by main areas for the January-October periods of this year and last, in millions of dollars:

Exports
United States	$3,143.1	$2,635.4
United Kingdom	748.5	757.3
Other Cwths	271.5	273.3
All others	1,076.6	1,156.7
Total	5,239.8	4,822.7
Imports
United States	3,651.4	3,181.9
United Kingdom	476.2	510.1
Other Cwths	267.9	238.9
All others	880.9	798.4
Total	5,276.5	4,729.2

The strong rise in exports to the U.S. helped reduce Canada's traditional deficit on trade with the U.S. to $508,400,000 for the 10 months, down $38,100,000 from last year. The drop in import buying from the United Kingdom was the main factor in boosting Canada's surplus with the U.K. to $272,400,000 from $247,200,000 a year earlier.

Roman Catholic Council Too Slow for Canadian

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal said Monday night the recent session of the Roman Catholic Church's ecumenical council moved too slowly and faultily for his taste.

"Everything that was done was badly done," he said in an address in Papineau Hall in eastern Montreal on his impressions of the council's first session, which adjourned 10 days ago.

"I was not listened to. I spoke in the desert. I put forth many daring proposals, but I don't know if they will be accepted," he said.

In his speech in French, the cardinal stressed the slowness of the council's deliberations.

"I will tell you frankly, I spoke to the Pope. I told him that unless a committee was created with sufficient powers to get everyone into action, we would achieve nothing."

"I had to fight to have affirmed the necessity of communion in both kinds during the marriage ceremony. Would it not in fact be a fine thing to see the bride and bridegroom not only eat the body of Christ but also drink His blood?"

DELEGATE OBJECTS

"Well! Do you know what one of the delegates objected to me. He stood up and said: 'And lip-stick!'"

"I am convinced myself that if young women were told they were going to drink the blood of Christ, they would certainly put their tube of lipstick aside for the day."

Cardinal Leger said he admits to being a "lively, if not impulsive," man.

"When I am taken with an idea, I want to put it into practice immediately. I tell you, that is not at all the style of a council. I can't gather together 2,000 bishops and say: 'Let's go.'"

However, the cardinal promised the audience the second session of the council, which begins in September, will be more "active."

He also said the council will remain "the most striking fact in my life." He predicted the present council will set a trend for continued meetings of the world's Roman Catholic prelates in Rome.

Cardinal Leger defined the ecumenical spirit as an answer to the present division in the Christian church.

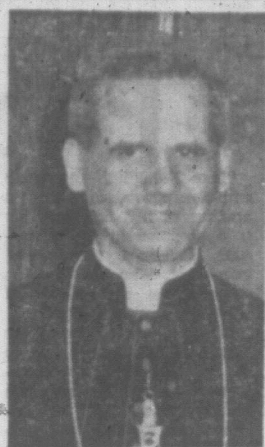

"The church should wait for the priests who are delayed, not pass sentence on them. The church will be good for them."

"Furthermore, the church should no longer say: 'I am above you.' We must stop affirming that we alone possess the truth."

"It is true that we possess the truth but we must stop saying it. Do it without saying it."

"It is by living the whole truth that we will attract them to us."

"That is the ecumenical spirit."

UBC to Take Over Accountant Training

University of B.C. has agreed with the Institute of Chartered Accountants to take over all five years of academic training for articled accountants in the province.

Gordon Holms, of the Victoria firm of Bailey, Monteith and Holms, and president of the B.C. Institute, said the plan is effective in 1963.

"British Columbia has grown so much in the last 10 years that practitioners have just run out of time to train students," he said.

Under the original accountant training scheme, practising accountants were responsible for all training of new candidates.

As university facilities grew and more accountants were able to take training, the responsibility has passed more to university.

NEW COURSE

UBC will develop a new course curriculum for articled students, those who have completed in-training.

Examinations still will be set by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, and local members will be responsible for supervising examination.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

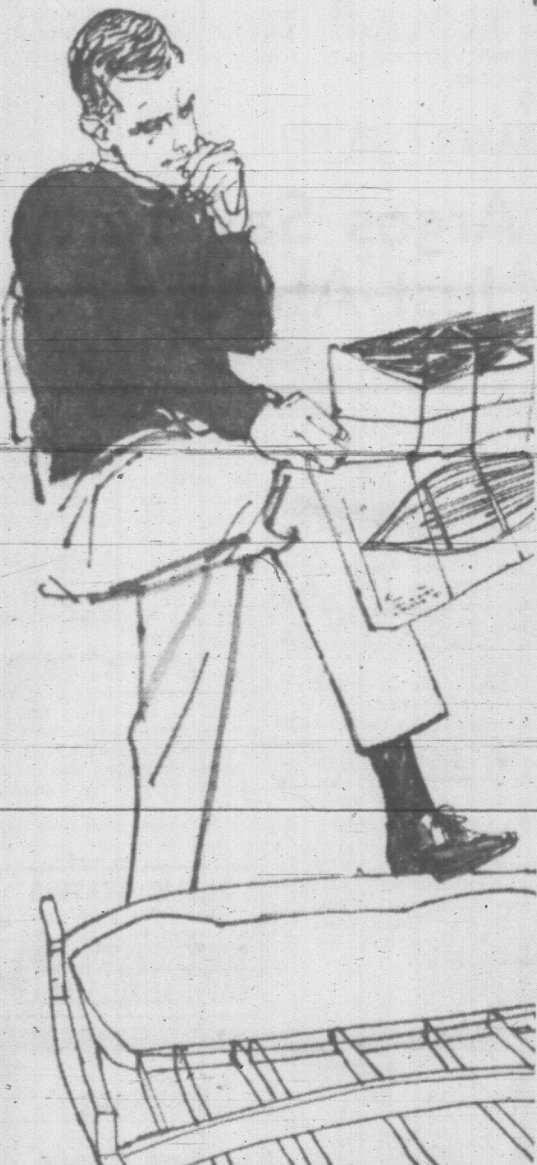

Perfect for the "Little Girl" on your list. Many sizes and types to choose from.

'Cause Chevrolet offers an outstanding array of durability and dependability features!

- 1 Water-washed, air-dried rocker panels: they are cleaned and dried with water and air from the cowl inlet — and they're protected by 2 coats of rust-inhibiting prime and anti-corrosion compound.
- 2 Inner front fenders: keep salt, slush, mud and water away from the under-side of the front fenders.
- 3 Extended-life exhaust system: lasts longer because of liberal aluminizing in the muffler, plus heavier gauge tail pipe.
- 4 Delcotron generator: delivers power to battery even at low engine speeds. Crawling through winter traffic with lights, heater, wipers and radio on won't drain the battery.
- 5 Unisteel body by Fisher: a tight, tough unit, with all sections welded firmly into place. Body is rust-protected, sealed, insulated and acoustically hushed.
- 6 Safety-Girder frame: X-built with heavy steel centre support — the solid basis of Chevrolet's outstanding ride and stability.
- 7 Self-adjusting brakes: just a touch of the toe each time you back up — and your brakes are automatically adjusted for sure stopping under all driving conditions.
- 8 Magic-Mirror finish: resists chipping, fading and the effects of salt and tar. That long-lasting lustre needs little care.
- 9 Extended lubrication interval: 6 months or 6,000 miles between lubrications — 60 days or 6,000 miles between oil changes.
- 10 Full Coil suspension: gives that famous, quiet Jet-smooth ride and sure stability that are so distinctively Chevrolet.

'WATCH IT—I'LL SHOOT'

Mean 'un with a gun (though strictly in fun) is Mr. Spanky, celebrated skating chimpanzee currently appearing here with Ice Capades. To find out how it is the chimpanzee skating business, meet Mr. Spanky and owner Dave Pitts in Hal Malone's column below.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Trust John Harris.

He made millions by dressing dolls in as little cloth as the law permits and having them skate around draughty rinks to the tune of symphony music.

But that wasn't enough. No, John, who is quite particular about who gets on his Ice Capades payroll, this year signed a chimpanzee. No audition. Just talked to him on the phone and said, "Come."

Well, Harris didn't talk to him really. You know how hard it is for chimps to understand people. So Mr. Harris talked to Dave Pitts. Everybody calls him "Mr. Spanky," which is the chimpanzee's name.

This was in April. Pitts and Spanky were in Paris. Harris was in the U.S.

"Four years ago," says Pitts, "when I tried to go to work for Mr. H. I got the 'Who are you?' bit."

"This time, he was open arms. 'Come, join us.' Signed us on our reputations. That's all. No audition."

Normally your agent doesn't get too enthused about animals in sport. In the normal course of attending athletic contests he encounters sufficient monkeys. But a chimpanzee on skates, hmmm.

After lunch Monday, Spanky was taking his siesta in a special crate located near the ladies' powder room at the north end of Memorial Arena. (Much of this is speculation; the crate could have been in the ladies' room, and Spanky may not have been inside. I know he wasn't outside when I heard a low growl inside I didn't bother checking.)

Pitts had taken over the "premises" (I hope no ladies wander in there inadvertently when he is taking Spanky out of the cage) and was down on his knees, scrubbing the floor.

"Have to be careful of germs," he said. "Chimps have practically no resistance. Spanky caught a slight cold in Vancouver. Have to treat him carefully."

Treat him? What with? "Hot fluids, coffee," said Pitts, as casually as if he might have been talking about Aunt Martha. "Keep the passages open, avoid congestion. That's about all we can do."

Pitts used the plural "we" often. "We polished the act." The first time he said it, I asked him who he meant by "we"—a third party perhaps?

"Spanky and me," he said, looking a trifle hurt.

Pitts is a lanky (6' 2") string-bean (160 lbs.) who might have been a pop singer. And was.

But bronchial trouble threatened to silence his pipes commercially.

"So you bought a chimpanzee."

"Yes, from a man named Ed Sellak. He told me not to take a chimp on the ice. No money, no future, he said."

"You hadn't skated before?"

"No, I hadn't. Neither had the chimp. I think that's why we've had so much success—I was learning, as he was learning. I understood his problems."

Audiences don't have to understand to appreciate. They see people cutting capers on ice, they clap. They see a chimp spinning, dancing, tightwire walking, they howl. In England, Bavaria, France, South America.

Now about this friend of yours, Mr. Pitts.

"Spanky is five years old, 47 inches tall, weighs 100 pounds, has the strength of three men, is a vegetarian, loves bananas and onions. You know how it is with people, an apple a day, etc.? It's the same with chimps. Only it's an onion, not an apple. Wonderful for congestion. Works for adults too. Course you have to like onions. The smell gets pretty thick."

Tricks?

"Spanky has a repertoire of 114. Even though I've been working with him this long, I'm amazed every night to see him jump. He leaps 16 feet over some stuffed toys. Off the ice he's a comedian too. Loves to buffon and unbuffon clothes. Lately he's been on shoe laces. He can untie them. And tie them—in the most unusual way you ever saw."

Spanky seems like a cultured, pearl, housebroken and helpful. But in animal shows chimpanzees rank only behind elephants as customers who can get mean, intolerable, ornery.

Does Spanky ever revert to form, act like he's keen to chew on a human or two for supper?

"Once in a while he'll test me," said Pitts. "I can tell when it's coming. He'll be at his peak and then he'll get a little tart, cocky like. I induce the act by twisting his wrist the wrong way and he'll snap at me. Having done it, he will feel sorry."

"After the show I'll spank him, make him stand in a corner for 15 minutes. Sometimes it's hard. If I'm in a high-hearted mood, I still have to put up a stern front for him. After a few minutes in the corner he starts to sob softly. And when I release him, you can see the tears."

"I cut out his privileges. No supper that night. Confined to cage until the next show. No exceptions. You have to go all the way with it. You have to use child psychology on him. He has the mind of a five-year-old child."

But no ordinary five-year-old is Spanky. From an original investment of $1,500 he is worth $25,000 today.

How much a part of the act is Spanky?

"About 90 per cent," said Pitts, refreshingly candid.

COWBOYS' LeBARON SOLID PRO

Little Ed Real Pally With Big Tackles

NEW YORK (CP)—Eddie LeBaron, a former quarterback with Calgary Stampede in the Canadian Football League, is a little man in a world of giants in the National Football League—but he can joke about it.

He just completed one of his best years at the age of 32, with 16 touchdown passes and 1,436 yards gained for Dallas Cowboys, despite missing several games through injury.

"I probably am the friendliest fellow in the league to large tackles and ends," says the 160-pound lawyer. "Cino Marchetti (Baltimore Colts' defensive end) has been hitting me for years. I always say 'Gino, you really are playing well.' It works, because then he helps me up. I always try not to get those unfriendly folks mad at me."

Leo Nomellini (a tackle with San Francisco 49ers) is another of my favorites. He is a wrestler in the off-season. He likes to practice grunting. When he lines up opposite me and glowers I wink and say 'hi Leo.'"

LeBaron, a real pro in the banquet league as well as on the football field, also mentions records he has set since joining Dallas.

"I threw the shortest touchdown pass in history, two inches," he said. "Of course, people will ask: 'What stupid quarterback would throw a pass with two inches to go?'"

"Then I threw one 102 yards last year. The only trouble was that Erich Barnes (New York Giants' defensive back) caught it and went for the record. When Mike Gaecher (Dallas back) ran 100 yards with an interception this year, I told him 'next time get back in that end zone deeper just for me and get my record out of the books.'"

"I'm a lawyer who is a moonlighter with a part-time job on Sunday," said LeBaron. "It was more part time than ever the way we worked it this year."

He was referring to coach Tom Landry's system of alternating him with Don Meredith on every play. The NFL plays most of its games on Sundays.

"It was nice to get out of the office on weekends," he said with a wry grin. "Nice to see the sky and the other scenery around the NFL."

A little man who must contend with 300-pound tackles, LeBaron spent a great deal of time on his back, gazing into the wide blue yonder. Still he completed 95 of 166 attempted passes.

Crack Czech Team Whips Quakers 9-4

PRAGUE (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers left here today for a series of eight games in other Czechoslovak cities after suffering a 9-4 defeat Monday at the hands of the Czech national hockey team.

The Quakers, of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League, so far have lost three straight games in their current European exhibition tour which began last week in Sweden.

The Canadians were downed 7-0 and 13-3 by the Swedish national team in the first two games of the 13-game tour of Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland. All but three of the games are against Czech teams.

A crowd of 19,500 saw the favored Czech team whip the Canadians although the Quakers did manage to give the Czechs a tough time. The Czech team defeated the defending world champion Swedes 6-1 and 4-2 in exhibition games three weeks ago.

LOSE EARLY LEAD

The Quakers took a 2-0 lead in the first 14 minutes of the game but the Czechs came roaring back in the closing six minutes to slam four goals past Saskatoon goalie Don Campbell.

Two of the goals came with the Quakers a man short as they continued to run against the strict European rules.

The Czechs outscored the Canadians 4-1 in the second period and the teams split two goals in the third period.

Canadian goals were tallied by Jackie McLeod, who got two, and by Charlie Goodwin and George Senick.

Frank Gregor, Jaroslav Jirik and Miroslav Vlach each scored twice for the Czechs. Singles were added by Joe Cerny, George Delana and Frank Vanek.

HOW IS EDDIE MACHEN? 'NOT TOO WELL TODAY'

NAPA, Calif. (AP)—Eddie Machen, the No. 1 heavy-weight boxing contender who has been in a mental institution almost a week, was in a "very disturbed condition," Monday, the head of the institution said.

Dr. Theo Miller, staff superintendent and medical director of Napa State Hospital where Machen was taken last Wednesday after apparently contemplating suicide, said Machen's condition varies from day to day.

"Sometimes he's better, sometimes he's worse. Today he's not getting along too well."

Aussies Fear Osuna Another Alex Olmedo

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—The ghost of Alex Olmedo is preventing any overconfidence that Australians might have about their approaching Davis Cup match against Mexico.

"I think we should win 5-0 but we cannot afford to be too sure of ourselves," veteran Aussie Fraser said Monday as the Aussies began workouts for the challenge round which begins Dec. 26.

"Osuna (Rafael Osuna the Mexican ace) may turn out to be another Olmedo. He is the Olmedo type player and he is the kind who raises his game for the big match and the big occasion," Fraser said.

Australians will never forget one of the Davis Cup's biggest upsets four years ago when Peruvian Olmedo, playing for the United States, almost single-handedly wrested the cup from the heavily favored Australians on these same Brisbane courts.

Fraser said Osuna reminds many people of Olmedo because of his catlike quickness on the court, his remarkable reflexes and his ability to anticipate shots.

"We hear that Osuna is very eager and very keen to make a name for himself," the former Wimbledon champion added. "You will remember that was just the way Olmedo was when he came down here in 1958."

Two other contenders are close behind, Jacques Plante of Montreal with 2.14 and Chicago's Glenn Hall with 2.13.

Howe Joins Mob Atop NHL Pile

MONTREAL (CP)—Dependable Gordie Howe, veteran of 16 National Hockey League seasons, picked up six points in three games with Detroit Red Wings last week to challenge Chicago's Stan Mikita and New York's Andy Bathgate for the league's scoring leadership.

All three players have 29 points on 11 goals and 18 assists.

Official NHL statistics released today show Mikita earned three points and Bathgate four in last week's play.

Tied for second place in the scoring race is another trio: Frank Mahovlich of Toronto, Alex Delvechio of Detroit.

All have 27 points, but Mahovlich ranks ahead because he leads the league in goals scored this season with 17.

New York's Dean Prentice ranks seventh with 26 points and three players are tied for eighth with 25. They are Parker MacDonald of Detroit, Johnny Bueyk and Murray Oliver, both of Boston.

Biggest producers among the league's top 24 last week were Red Wings representatives. Howe gained six points and Delvechio and MacDonald added four each.

HABS HAVE TROUBLE

Montreal had the most trouble finding the range. Henri Richard, picked up three points in Canadiens three games, but Gilles Tremblay netted only one and Bernie Geoffron and Jean Beliveau were empty-handed.

Geoffron, ranked fifth last week, has dropped into a tie for 13th with Richard, whose position is unchanged. Tremblay dropped to 16th and Beliveau to 19th from 13th last week.

Two wins and a loss last week have boosted the Red Wings back on top of the league standings—officially, at least.

Detroit and Chicago are credited with 35 points each, but the Wings get the nod since they have played only 28 games to 20 for the Black Hawks.

Toronto ranks third with 33, Montreal fourth with 31, New York fifth with 24 and Boston last with 14.

YOUNG TOP BADMAN

Detroit's Terry Sawchuk leads NHL goalenders in the Vézina Trophy race. With 52 goals scored on him in 25 games, he has a goals-against average of 2.12.

Two other contenders are close behind, Jacques Plante of Montreal with 2.14 and Chicago's Glenn Hall with 2.13.

10,000 SEATS SWALLOWED UP

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants reported a complete sellout of the 10,000 available tickets for the Dec. 30 title game with Green Bay by noon Monday. The tickets had gone on sale at 9 a.m.

The rest of the 62,800 tickets for the National Football League championship game, were earmarked for season ticket holders.

WRECKS VICTORIA

Victoria twice and the state side is weaker now. The only man of real class is Bill Lawry. Colin Cowdrey struck the ball crisply in an innings of 63 and if he continues the improvement it should not be long before he is back to his best.

Coldwell's figures of 6 for 49 represent the best of the tour, but he owed a lot to weak opposition from the tail-enders.

BAKER EYES NFL

Argos Say Terry 'Just About Lost'

PHILADELPHIA (CP-AP)—All-America quarterback Terry Baker wants to play professional football—and not just for the fun of it—and right now he's leaning toward the National Football League.

A pro football career, says the Oregon State star, is "a means to an end." The end is financing further studies.

"I want to go to medical or business school," he said here before returning to Oregon State to join the basketball team after the Liberty Bowl here Saturday in which he raced 99 yards for the only touchdown as Oregon defeated Villanova 6-0.

Baker, an honor student voted the most valuable player in Saturday's game, said he would like to play four or five years of pro football to help pay for his education, which he would continue in the off season.

He said he plans to sign a professional contract after the amateur basketball season is over, and he has no shortage of offers. Teams from the National, American and Canadian football leagues have been after him.

The Canadian club that has approached him is Toronto Argonauts but an Argo spokesman said Monday, the team figures "Baker is just about lost as far as we're concerned."

"We approached him some time ago and made him an offer, but we inferred from what he said that he wants to remain in the United States," the spokesman said.

Baker, a southpaw who can pass, run and kick, indicated in the interview here that, although there are many things to be considered, he's leaning right now towards the NFL.

"Every kid when he's little wants to play in the National Football League," he says.

But, he added, "there are lots of things to consider now."

Nine Orphans 'Stay Together' In New Home

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—"Children need parents. We need children."

With these words Mrs. Donald Meyers, wife of an executive of the Celanese Corp., told of their plans to add a family of nine orphans to their own family of four children.

"If these children were put in the world together, they should stay together," Mrs. Meyers said.

The Meyers have two boys and two girls of their own but wanted badly to see that the orphaned children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker of St. Cloud, Minn., stayed together.

Meyers, an executive of Celanese Corp., heard about the tragedy in a newspaper story and learned that the orphaned children wanted to stay together. Meyers called the Rev. Paul Byron, pastor of St. Gabriel's Catholic Church here, and said—"I want to adopt these children." The adoption machinery began to grind, slowly.

The Meyers had yet to hang a Christmas decoration or purchase a single Christmas present. Then came word that Father Lutgen would bring the nine brothers and sisters here this week.

"We'll get the shopping done," said Mrs. Meyers. "We're starting a great adventure, the greatest adventure a family can have."

Many hospitals and universities maintain their own animals for this purpose. These dogs are strong and healthy and receive the best of care and treatment.

CLINIC: Q. I have a one-year-old kitten, Tommy, who sheds his fur from April to August. Is it natural for him to shed so long?

Miss C. MacD., Cape Breton, N.S.
A — The April-to-August shedding may be normal for Tommy. Most cats shed all year round. Make certain that Tommy has a varied diet—meats and poultry as well as fish. If any irritations appear on his skin, have your veterinarian examine him.

CLINIC: Q. My parakeet's bill and claws grow too long. She can't move about the cage sometimes because of the claws, and the bill almost pierces her chest. She has gravel and a sandpaper perch, but these don't seem to help.

P. De St. J., Orem, Utah.

A — Your parakeet's bill and claws need periodic trimming. Your veterinarian, of course, can do this for you, but you can learn how to do it yourself. Some parakeets' bills and claws grow so slowly that a cuticle bone and gravel are sufficient to grind them down to proper length. Yours is not one of them, and periodic trimming is necessary.

CLINIC: Q. Our dog has developed white worms in her stool. She is 11 years old. Please tell me how to correct this.

A.W., New York City.

A — Take your pet to a veterinarian. It would appear that your dog has developed tapeworm—and this condition can be corrected only with drugs that must be administered by an expert. Fleas are carriers of tapeworm. After your dog has had medical treatment, keep him free of fleas to prevent re-infestation.

OTTAWA (CP)—The attorney-general of British Columbia has made no request for federal help in handling the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors since Oct. 1, Justice Minister Fleming reported in the Commons Monday.

LAW TO GRAB NOISY CARS

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan police start operating today a decibel sound meter at several locations and offenders of a new anti-noise by-law will be liable to fines up to $300 for each offence. If the volume of noise from a vehicle rises above a certain level, the motorists will be stopped and given a summons. Deputy Police Chief John Murray said enforcement of the new bylaw, approved Nov. 14 on a six-month trial basis, will determine how it will stand up in court.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By FARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Comedian Alan King, merciless kiddo of doctors, phone companies and insurance companies, next takes out after American lawyers.

It's because he's bringing a lawsuit against the Hotel Americana. A few weeks ago he stepped off the stage there, into eight feet of space, because some steps had been moved.

There were 2,000 people in that room while I lay there calling for help," says King.

The band was playing—nobody heard me... nobody but one lawyer three floors away, whose ears were especially attuned to calls for help. He rushed to me and his first words of comfort were, "Don't get up! Just lie there and wince with pain!"

King, who launches the lawyer-spoofing on the Garry Moore show, claims that he discovered the lawyers have a rule about dividing damages with a client. As his lawyer explained the deal to him: "If we lose the suit, I don't get a dime. If we win the suit, you don't get a dime."

Why Does Heat Make Mercury Rise in a Thermometer?

Most of the time the world seems full of fun and wonderful things to do. But when you cannot take part in the fun, the world seems sad and you get that poor-little-me feeling. Chances are your body is sick. It's time to take your temperature. If the mercury rises high in the thermometer, then you have a fever and everyone knows you are as sick as you feel.

Sometimes we cannot trust our own feelings to tell us how hot or how cold things are. Today may feel colder than yesterday, but the weatherman reports that it is really a bit warmer. Your body may feel hot with a fever, but the thermometer says that the room is just too hot.

A thermometer is a scientific instrument. It has no mind of its own, no feelings and no opinions. It must tell the exact truth, because it must obey the laws of nature. One of these laws makes mercury expand with heat. It swells bigger as it gets warmer. Science has figured out exactly how much heat it takes to make mercury expand just so much.

We use this information to make the mercury in a thermometer tell us the temperature. The glass part of the thermometer is a tube which opens into a small bulb at the bottom. A little mercury is put in the hollow glass and all the air is driven out from the hollow tube. The top of the tube is then sealed.

Mercury is the perfect material to work in most thermometers. In our everyday world, it is the only metal which is also a runny liquid. As it gets warmer, it swells and climbs up the hollow tube. We know just how much heat makes the mercury swell just so far. We can then use the rising mercury to measure the heat in steps which we call degrees of temperature.

Heat Makes Mercury Expand

A step ladder of temperature degrees is marked on the glass thermometer used by the doctor. The weatherman may use a thermometer with the glass tube fixed to a board. The scale of degrees may be on the board beside the tube of mercury. There are different thermometers for different jobs. An oven thermometer is set to show much higher degrees than a weather thermometer or a doctor's thermometer. But in each case the mercury works in the same way. Heat makes it expand. It climbs up the tube as it swells, and the step ladder of degrees tells us the temperature we want to know.

The hollow tube inside a doctor's thermometer is very, very fine. The mercury needs only a little heat to make it swell and climb up the ladder. The rounded outside of the tube acts like a magnifying glass and makes the thin thread of mercury look thicker. Each degree is divided into 10 steps or points so that this thermometer can give a very exact and detailed picture of a change in temperature.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Billy Carroll Brown, age eight, of Haynesville, La., for his question:

What makes the wind change direction?

There are many reasons why the wind changes its path. As a rule, it blows out from a mass of dense, heavy air or into a pocket of thin, light air. But a soft breeze may be forced to turn around when it meets a strong gale. Most of our winds, however, are brought by huge air masses that come from the west and follow each other across the land.

The weather tends to bring us a pleasant spell, a rough spell, then another pleasant spell. A spell of pleasant weather is a huge pinwheel of

THEY SKATED 1,000 MILES WITH ZIP AND GRACE

By DESMOND BILL.
The Ice Capades came to town Monday night and their familiar brand of cool, sparkling entertainment evoked the familiar warm enthusiasm of the audience.

The skaters covered about 1,000 miles on the ice of Memorial Arena. Substantially their acts were of the same type as those which have carried them an estimated 6,000,000 miles over the ice in the 22-year history of the show.

For although this show is completely different from last year's, Ice Capades is one of those entertainments that remains the same the more it changes.

GUARANTEED
And no wonder it doesn't change. Its formula seems guaranteed to keep a continuing audience "on ice" for each succeeding year it goes on tour across the continent.

The opening night audience here got what it wanted. This year's version of Ice Capades is as great a crowd-pleaser as any in the past.

It has zip and grace, but foolery and glamor, and several standout performers. The most notable are Grete Borgen from Norway and Alja Zanova from Czechoslovakia. Miss Zanova has a confidence and command in her performance that shows her world championship status.

LIFTED SHOW
The appearance of Miss Borgen early in the performance brought about an immediate effect. Just by her presence she seems to give a life to the whole show.

Dick and Jean Maxfield gave the evening's zippiest performances and the Ice Capades gave one of the most pleasing with a number titled "Precision in Rhythm."

In enjoyed the goofy performance of Demko and Ben. The skating team, and the scrub woman routine of The Three Bruses, made me laugh. But it was in a minority. Most people were in hysterics.

Ice Capades is anything but sophisticated but who cares? It is a lot of fun if you relax. Anyway it is a clean, wholesome family entertainment.

... won many awards

Cancer Takes Second Noted Actor

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Thomas Mitchell, an actor's actor, honored by his colleagues with the highest awards of stage, screen and television, died Monday of cancer. He was 70.

He was the second victim of the deadly disease in two days among the famous names of Hollywood. The other was Charles Laughton.

They appeared once together in a movie—The Hunchback of Notre Dame in 1939.

The bushy-browed Mitchell—who had the face of an Irish leprechaun and the soul of a devilish poet—was most famous for his role of Scarlett O'Hara's father in Gone with the Wind.

That same year—1939—Mitchell also played the boozy frontier doctor in Stagecoach, a picture many critics believe the finest western ever made.

WON OSCAR

In the Academy awards that year Mitchell was mainly in competition with himself. His performance in Stagecoach won him the Oscar for best supporting actor.

In 1952 he won television's Emmy for best dramatic performance and in 1953 he got the legitimate theatre's Tony for his role in the Broadway musical Hazel Flagg.

The public mostly knew Mitchell as an actor during his 50-year career in show business. He also was known as a quiet genius of theatre in his early career. As a playwright he had several hit plays on Broadway.

Born in Elizabeth, N.J., Mitchell started as a newspaper reporter and like his old friend, John Barrymore, drifted from the city room to the stage door. One of Mitchell's earliest Broadway appearances was with Barrymore in the 1918 production of Redemption.

LAST OF GROUP

Mitchell was the last hard core survivor of the famous Paddy Street group, immortalized by the late Gene Fowler in Minutes of the Last Meeting. The group, known to have squeezed a grape or two in its hey-day, consisted of Barrymore, W. C. Fields, Errol Flynn, artist John Decker, and the Bohemian drifter Sadakichi Hartmann.

Mitchell, a witty and brilliant conversationalist, had cancer for almost a year, but kept his spirits up. On Thanksgiving Eve he appeared on Perry Como's television show. It was filmed last summer.

His survivors include his wife, Susan, and a daughter, Mrs. Anne Lang. James Mitchell, labor secretary in President Eisenhower's cabinet, was a nephew.

ABBOTSFORD (CP)—Schoolteacher Clifford H. Smith, 48, was killed Monday when his car smashed into a concrete abutment on the Trans-Canada Highway near Abbotsford, 40 miles east of Vancouver.

Capacity Audience For Messiah

The Messiah—universal Christmas music—was sung to a full cathedral by Victoria Choral Society Monday night. The choir and soloists gave a fine performance of the Handel classic, first performed here in 1887, making it the oldest Messiah performance in B.C.

Christ Church Cathedral was the setting for the oratorio, in which Vanessa Lax, soprano; Eleanor Duff, contralto; Norman Tyrrell, tenor; and Stanley Martin, bass, took solo roles.

Richard Proudman was organist and the society was directed by Rodney Webster. The work has been done annually here since 1936 by the society, and for years previously by a forerunner.

HAWES' SWAN SONG

'Stick to Guns' In Merger Fight

Last Oak Bay council meeting of the year ended Monday night on an amiable note and a plug to keep fighting amalgamation.

Retiring councillor Fred Hawes, chairman of finance, was praised by Reeve George Murdoch for his 10 years of service to the municipality.

He suggested that when pressure of business—reason for Mr. Hawes' retirement—eases up, he should return to council, perhaps as reeve.

The councillor drew a standing ovation when he said, referring to pressure from without:

"I hope you will stick with your guns... and run as you have been."

PTA council library committee.

Members of council approved the suggestion of Miss Gladys Ledingham that she meet council's own library investigation committee when proposed library service extension is discussed.

In drawing a picture of the library situation, Miss Ledingham told councillors:

"Too many people need improved library service as soon as it can be secured. Bookmobiles provide this service faster and cheaper, she said."

Council reluctantly went along with a suggestion that it pay 14.28 per cent of the $1000 haberdashery bill for Victoria Junior Shamrocks Canadian lacrosse champions.

Council will ask a private kindergarten to "please, don't sue," pending a decision on a proposed school zoning bylaw.

Councillors were told Jimmy Crickets kindergarten can seek damages from the corporation if an application for a building permit is held up beyond a specified time.

The school has asked permission to extend classroom use to another part of its existing premises in order to accommodate a grade two class next year.

In view of proposed changes in zoning and uncertainty of council's authority to control non-conforming expansion of existing buildings, plus the upcoming holiday period, the school will be asked to waive its right to suit.

A suggested $1 increase in pound fees and $1.55 in dog licence fees met with a terse counter-suggestion from licence inspector John Muir.

"I would like to recommend that consideration be given to the plan of paying the SPCA on the basis of the number of dogs impounded, rather than on the number licensed."

"Perhaps then the society will start to do something about the dogs roaming our streets," Mr. Muir wrote council.

Council received the recommended fee and licence increases Monday night and tabled them for study.

The case for bookmobiles as opposed to branch libraries was presented to council by a retired school teacher and chairman of Greater Victoria.

The statue of Eros, god of love, in London's Piccadilly Circus was the first in the world made of aluminum, erected in 1933.

Strike Away Locks, Bars in Our Mental Hospitals

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty and forget.

For sorry centuries, this literally became the fate of millions of mentally ill humans. Packed off to asylums, few came out. But at 64, John C. came home after 23 desolate years in a state mental hospital. He is one of thousands salvaged from back wards of mental hospitals.

Fourteen years ago, he was another inmate in a hospital with 1,850 patients, and only two doctors. To feed, clothe, house and "treat" each of them, the hospital spent $1.06 a day. In some other hospitals it was as little as 43 cents a day.

Then an aroused state acted, providing more psychiatrists, nurses and psychiatric aides. Things to do, new stimulation to win the sick back to health. With intensive treatment, John C. recovered.

Today that same hospital spends about $11 daily a patient, and has only half as many patients. There are in other of the best mental hospitals in the U.S. 70 to 85 per cent of patients go home within three months to a year after being admitted. And this same hospital now spends only half as much, for total treatment, for every patient who recovers, because of the shorter stay.

The dolorous rub is that only 20 per cent of patients in all the U.S. mental hospitals get the benefits of such effective treatment.

This includes drugs and intensive psychotherapy, the psychiatrist's way of listening and talking to and encouraging patients, such as John C., until finally a light goes on in their minds and they understand what they were doing to themselves, as Dr. William Menninger expresses it.

Still today in state mental hospitals, only half of all patients are getting anything more than custodial care—bed and board. As a national average, mental hospitals spend only $5 daily a patient, compared with $34.90 daily in a general hospital for the person with a physical complaint.

The best hospitals have one psychiatrist for every 35 to 50 patients. The national average, however, is one for each 140. As one thermometer in the new climate, there were 9,000 fewer patients in mental hospitals at the end of 1961 than a year before. And there were 100,000 fewer than had been predicted in 1955 on then current national rates of new illness and population growth.

NOT MANY DANGEROUS

Another idea is spreading—strike away the locks and bars in mental hospitals. Wise doctors are winning the argument that cooping sick people up like prisoners can only make them sicker and more frightened. Only a small percentage of mental patients is dangerous to themselves, or to others.

Mental hospitals traditionally have concentrated on getting patients well enough to go home to normal life.

Coming along rapidly is a new concept of community psychiatry, says Philip E. Ryan, executive director of the National Association for Mental Health.

In this, the emphasis is to get the patient over the acute stage of illness by hospital treatment. Then, with the major wounds bound, to send him home to finish his recovery, much like the patient with a heart attack or tuberculosis.

A young mother crippled by acute anxieties, for example, was admitted to a general hospital merely as another sick person, with no commitment papers.

Once over the crisis, she went home, continuing regular visits to the hospital's out-patient clinic. She was fortunate, too, in having a community service which supplied a trained nurse to help her at home with her children or household problems.

ILLNESS CAN RECUR

Recovery from mental illness is one thing. But people can slip back if they cannot find jobs, are shunned by friends, or return to bad home situations, and old problems. New and well-established community facilities are tackling these problems.

In Topeka, Kan., and some other communities, employers willingly give jobs to people still under clinical treatment. In many cities, under mental health association auspices, patients have formed former patient clubs to help one another in full recovery.

Formerly, about one-third of up 24-hour emergency clinics. Some provide day care, where the patient can come for treatment, spending his nights at home. Some provide night hospital care for people who work by day, come in at evening for therapy and overnight stay.

There also are a few halfway houses, where discharged patients live for a time in company with other patients, gaining confidence, realizing they are not alone. In some communities, emotionally sick children from broken homes are finding foster homes, for affection and normal experiences while being treated at mental health clinics.

NEED MORE DOCTORS

Only about one-fifth of the general hospitals in the U.S. as yet have such psychiatric units. Last year, general hospitals cared for about 350,000 of the emotionally ill.

There are other helping hands. Hospitals and communities now operate nearly 1,500 psychiatric outpatient clinics for advice, diagnosis, guidance, referral to mental hospitals, and treatment by drugs or psychotherapy, and last year assisted 500,000 persons.

Only a few hospitals have set patients discharged from mental hospitals relapsed, and had to go back within a year.

Pilot programs stressing total rehabilitation through multiple services indicate this recurrence of illness could be reduced to 10 per cent or less, says the national institute of mental health.

The battle for mental health costs money. Fifteen states by law now share with cities and communities the costs of expanding mental health facilities. The latest budget of the National Institute of Mental Health allocates $4,200,000 for matching grants with states to plan comprehensive mental health plans. Last year, federal, state and local agencies spent $91,000,000 for community mental health programs.

Embargo Expected To Boost Price Of Fruit Here

The destruction of citrus fruits by last week's cold spell in Florida may cause a slight rise in the price of fruit in Victoria.

But wholesalers do not expect any shortage despite a 10-day embargo imposed on the shipment of fruit from Florida. The embargo is to prevent the sale of any fruit damaged by the cold.

Any city merchants who have to replace Florida sources of supply will be easily able to buy from California growers, according to local merchants.

School Board to Try Out New Teaching Machines Next September

By IAIN HUNTER

Advances of the machine age will be applied to selected groups of pupils in Greater Victoria schools in the 1963-64 teaching year, it was forecast at a meeting of the school board Monday night.

Following a submission by Dennis Brown, supervisor of curricular and special services for District 61, superintendent of schools John Gough said it was hoped to experiment with teaching machines in some schools next year.

Mr. Brown urged the board to allot half of one per cent of its annual budget to experimentation with teaching machines and programed learning in local schools.

He explained to trustees that the program learning technique breaks down courses into small sequences, each sequence to be a basis for the next step in a school subject.

The step-by-step approach would allow each pupil to proceed at his own pace. Bright children would advance faster and slow learners would be allowed more time to master various subjects, he said.

Mr. Brown said he did not think the more expensive teaching machines, costing thousands of dollars per unit, need be considered by the district. He did advocate, however, use of a program book and a question and answer kit for individual use by pupils.

The program book provides a sliding sleeve covering one half of a page bearing answers to questions carried on the other half.

The kit contains windows in which a question appears. The pupil writes in his answer in another window, and by turning a roller, can produce the correct answer for comparison with his own.

"The advantage of such a system in each case is that either by turning a roller or sliding down the sleeve of the book, the pupil is provided with an immediate indication whether or not he has mastered the sequence," Mr. Brown told trustees.

He said that "cheating" by students could be guarded against by teacher-set tests, and by the fact that the pupil would be "completely lost in a few pages" if he did not master each successive step in order.

Mr. Brown claimed it was found children enjoyed using a system which provided them with instant answers so much that they were encouraged to "go on and on."

Mr. Gough told trustees that after inspecting sound "laboratories" as set up in Shawnigan Lake School for boys, he felt the "aural-oral" learning machines could be deferred "for another year" in the Greater Victoria district.

Dictaphone booths for individual pupils had been set up at Shawnigan for teaching of languages. But it was felt tape recorders provided with multiple earphones might be more suited to this district, he said.

Mr. Brown emphasized he was not advocating adoption of the machines to the board.

"First of all we must find the program which is most closely allied to our own present one, and we must find teachers who are enthusiastic and willing to try the new techniques," he said.

"It would not do to try and force this on any teacher."

It was agreed the board would make further study of the question before initiating an experimental program.

ARTHUR MAYSE

In our lives there was one Christmas Eve like none before or after. I wouldn't call it our best, because every Christmas is that, but it did have a quality which makes it stand apart.

We had been married long enough to be sure this was the road we would walk as long as the powers allowed us. Except for a bossy black spaniel, we were without dependents. Alone in Toronto, we had been luxuriating for half a year in the freedom a young couple enjoys before house and children bring their amiable burden of responsibility.

I was getting out a trade magazine—a job which consisted chiefly of cannibalizing other such publications—and with the dreary little creature safe abed, I knocked off early.

Win met me in the black-squirrel park behind Royal Ontario Museum where the snow lay smooth and the elms stood gaunt against a luminous sky. Lazily strolling, we wondered what to do with our Christmas Eve.

We considered going to a party, or shoe-horning ourselves into a train for Montreal or New York. But the mood somehow wasn't right for either, and we went home with nothing decided.

Home was a room in a large and ancient brick house on Admiral Road. The population of that once-fashionable street consisted mostly of landladies, furnacemen, and young apartment dwellers such as we.

Our furnaceman was off at his favorite beer parlor with Lucky the spaniel, but our landlady met us in the hall. We wished her Merry Christmas. Then, because she was Jewish, we asked her (diplomatically still unlearned) if the sentiment was in order.

She smiled at us, one of the kindest women we've ever known.

"We honor everything that is good," she answered, and gave us a little plum pudding and asked if we had enough blankets.

At the furnaceman had left his own gift, a turnip of the authentic Newfoundland "screech" which he obtained from some mysterious fount of rain.

We drank his health—one swallow of that potent was enough—then, still with no Christmas Eve plans, decided that reciprocal gifts were called for. After arranging the day's Christmas cards on the enormous black walnut table that came with the room, we set out for Bloor Street.

Shopping our way along, we neared the Spadina intersection and found a Christmas tree lot. We wandered into this odorous forest, assuring each other that a tree would be nonsense, and came out with a three-foot jackpine, scandalously priced.

The little gap-toothed vendor knocked off fifty cents. "A gift," he announced, "from me to you, and compliments of the season!"

Dusk had now deepened into a crisp night diamonded with stars. Trudging between four-foot banks with the dry snow squeaking under our shoes and the serotous jackpine under my arm, I started a cynical remark about the tree-seller's gift.

But the Soldier's Tower carillon chose that moment to begin filling the night with its mellow clangor. I looked at Win with her arms full of packages, and she looked at me, and we both knew some magic had been building and mounting through these aimless-seeming hours.

"Hey!" my wife said in a voice of pleased discovery, "all of a sudden it's Christmas Eve!"

And so it was, in spirit as well as fact. We went home by snowy streets with the carillon bells pealing their music to the frosty stars.

Arrived, we raided the basement for a flower pot big enough to hold our tree, which was a fine tree after all. Decorations were scarce in those years, but we made do with popcorn and cotton-wool, a handful of silver foil, and a happiness that needed no NewfiedJohn screech to belie it.

Next year we had a son and a house and a glittering tree to brush the ceiling.

Still, we have never forgotten the other, earlier Christmas Eve when we lacked all these.

Looking back now, I think that was the time when we became more than two young people casually linked by marriage. We established a tradition, a mystique, if you will, and by so doing turned a rented room into a true home.

And when a home has been established, a couple even though childless, becomes a family.

Firemen 'Graduate'

Presentation of proficiency certificates to 12 Saanich auxiliary firemen will be made in January.

The civil defence volunteers completed their training program Monday night at Saanich firehall, under direction of deputy chief Glen Robbins and fire department officers. Four men of the original class failed.

A second class in basic fire-fighting will be given in January, when a new class for advanced training also is planned.

If a proposed agreement with the army can be reached, Saanich also will train a number of Victoria militia men.

W. R. Webb, 998 Jasmine; Raymond Ramsay, 599 Sedgwick; A. L. Shaw, 801 Daffodil; David J. McClelland, 3443 Whittier, and T. H. Hunt, 2921 Glasgow.

Social Workers Need More Pay, PTA Tells Deputy

Better salaries and special government scholarships for social workers were urged today in a brief to the government from the Parent-Teacher Federation of B.C.

FLEDGLING FIREMEN demonstrate training drill using civil defence apparatus at Saanich fire hall. They are eight of a class of 12 volunteers graduated as auxiliary firemen after weeks of training by Saanich fire department officers. In event of civil or military emergency they would supplement regular fire fighters.

CADDY AWAY FOR CHRISTMAS?

Woman 'Shoots' Serpent

Has Cadborosaurus, Victoria's fun-loving sea serpent, gone Up-Island for the Yuletide holidays?

This question is intriguing devoted followers of Caddy since a man and wife at Lantzville, north of Nanaimo, reported sighting a sea serpent Monday—and, more important, photographing it.

W. G. Clark was clearing logs from the beach in front of his home when he saw a "round, ball-like head in the water." He called to his wife, who ran down to the beach with her 8 mm movie camera, with telephoto lens attached, and shot about 2 1/2 feet of film—about 15 seconds.

Mrs. Clark reports that the "creature" disappeared in the direction of Nanos Bay at a rate of knots, and that a boat moored to the shore obscured vision of "the thing" just before it disappeared.

MOVED FAST

She said the thing was moving at tremendous speed, about 100 yards offshore.

Mrs. Clark said that later in the day, about noon, two friends noticed a great "thrashing about" in the calm water near the Nanos Bay breakwater.

Mrs. Audrey Barry and another friend told Mrs. Clark they distinctly saw a head and at least one hump.

Mrs. Clark loaned the film to the CBC television news representative at Nanaimo, and it may be shown on the 6:45 news tonight on Channel 2.

$300 REWARD

If the film turns out all right and a publishable picture of Caddy results, the Clarks will be $300 richer—the Times standing reward for a photograph of Cadborosaurus.

The Times and the Clarks are awaiting developments.

GIFTS SHOPLIFTED

His Christmas Spirit 'Complete Departure'

A soldier who thought he could save money on Christmas presents by stealing them lost both the presents and a further $50 as a fine in city police court today.

Roy A. Wilson, 18, of Work Point Barracks, pleaded guilty to theft of a woman's sweater and a bottle of perfume from the T. Eaton Co., Douglas St., Monday.

He said he was going to give the stolen articles as Christmas presents. Total value of the articles was $22.75.

"This is a complete departure from the Christmas spirit," Magistrate William Ostler told the accused.

"I am sure the recipient would rather have some small present which you had bought with your own money."

The magistrate also warned that he was considering "more stringent measures" against shoplifters.

"There is altogether too much shoplifting in this community, and it is increasing," he said.

Duncan Boy Dies After Bike Crash

Impaired Charge Against Motorist

Eleven-year-old Eric Samuel Lundgren died in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan today from injuries received when he was struck by a car on the Trans-Canada Highway last Wednesday.

Driver of the car, Louis Williams, Duncan, has been charged with impaired driving. RCMP said a more serious charge may be laid.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Lundgren, North Island Highway, the boy was a student at Somenos Elementary School. He has a brother, Douglas.

He was riding his bicycle two and a half miles north of Duncan when the accident occurred.

Funeral services will be held from First Funeral Chapel on Saturday at 2 p.m. Rev. R. F. Stephenson will officiate.

Injured Family Finds Friends

Future Brighter For Newcomers

It's going to be a wonderful Christmas for the Lutes after all.

They are the young family, newcomers to Victoria, whose car went out of control and crashed at Royal Oak and Patricia Bay Highway Sunday evening, putting all five in hospital.

Three weeks ago Robert Lutes, 25, and his 22-year-old wife Carolyn Ann loaded their three children and all their possessions in a small car and drove from Ottawa to Victoria.

FOUND JOB They wanted to make a new life out here and it quickly seemed as if they were going to succeed. He got a job as salesman with Victoria Photo Supply and was doing well at it. The couple looked for a house.

Then on Sunday night, as they returned from a children's party at the home of Robert's boss, Fred Tanner, their car flipped over twice and spilled some of them out on the pavement.

The most seriously injured was 18-month-old Jacqueline, whose leg was gashed from ankle to hip. It was feared she might be hurt internally too.

ON THE MEND But today all members of the family are getting better. Four-year-old Jamie has been released from hospital, and strangers who got to know and like the young family in its short time in Victoria are rallying around.

Mr. Tanner is taking Jamie into his home. And he has told the boy's father that he doesn't need to worry about his job. That will be waiting for him when he leaves hospital.

The owners of the Edgewater Motel, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Donaldson, where the Lutes were staying, have also offered to help when the rest of them get out of hospital.

MORE HELP Mrs. Hamilton Downes, who occupies the unit next to the one where the Lutes stayed, has offered to look after the children too, until Mrs. Lutes fully recovers from the accident.

Home Lighting Tour Planned By Car Club

City householders with Christmas light displays are asked to have them on early tonight when a group of hot-rodders take aged residents of Matson Sunset Lodge for a sightseeing tour.

The 25-member Coachmen club, organized only a few weeks ago, will take their guests out between 7 and 9 p.m. for a look at lights they may not otherwise have the opportunity to see.

"They are trying to do good, and are ready to participate in any civic affairs for a worthy cause," a spokesman for the boys said.

The tour will concentrate on Oak Bay and Uplands areas, where many lighting displays are concentrated.

Don't Swing Those Rocks Without a Curling Sweater

By Penny Saver

Penny has a tendency to overlook curling accessories as her own memories of the game are not ones that she likes to recall. Only once did I try heaving those great boulders down the ice. No sooner had I picked myself up than I was given a broom and told to sweep furiously a sheet of ice that someone else had just finished sweeping a moment before. Never, before or since, have I seen men and women alike so possessed with cleanliness.

Yes, it's a great game and I might even have tried it the second time if I had retained the use of either arm within a week or two of my first experience.

Thinking back on that game, I'm convinced now that I was not wearing the proper curling sweater and there is no doubt in my mind but what that was the source of my trouble. If I'd had a proper sweater to keep my muscles warm then they wouldn't have frozen into that locked position for two weeks.

Don't let this happen to you. Buy one of the beautiful curling sweaters I saw yesterday. (I couldn't make up my mind which one to buy; or I would be back at the game tonight.)

One was a brown, rust, yellow and white, knit in a Norwegian pattern and buttoned down the front. It is all wool and only $14.95.

The other one is $19.95 and is white with zipper closing. It is attractively trimmed with grey and yellow brooms and rocks (the artifacts I am crazy about.)

Something that really caught Penny's eye were all-wool Norwegian car coats designed for the spectator. A smart black and white one was priced at $35. For $19.95 there was a short red coat with a long scarf to toss around your neck. Eton style.

A little more glamorous was a green wool with orange and black braid patterned like a brocade. And, to make this coat even more outstanding were buttons carved from nutshells. A cozy sheepskin lining reached out into a collar. The price $39.50. Not Penny Savers perhaps—but ooooh, so luxurious and comfortable!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most Women Who Work Do So for Fundamentals

I am about as far from being a "feminist," as the term is used, as a chicken is from being an airplane pilot, but I must admit that I was shocked to read what great discrimination there is in wages paid a woman and a man doing the same work and doing it equally efficiently. I had no idea this was going on! And when you realize that most of the women who work outside of their homes do so because they must, or in order to add to the comfort and opportunities of those they love, this discrimination is even worse. It sounds like the dark ages!

Actually, the woman who works for pin money, and I know some do, is apt to find herself in the red. Her plan is a dream. When you count up the help you will have to have at home to take your place, transportation, clothes, income tax and all those hidden extra expenses, you can't win unless you gross a lot of money.

There are some women who have careers just because they love what they are doing. They have a creative urge which must be satisfied. Then there are women who are lov-

Festive Florals

Attractive and sophisticated floral arrangements are easy to achieve... starting with lowly but interesting weeds such as bullrushes, milkweed or stalks of grain. Dry them out first and shake them free of fluff. Then lay them side by side on newspaper, stand back and lightly dust them with golden spray from an aerosol can. The weeds are instantly transformed into lustrous, adornments... so pretty that chances are they will remain on display long after Christmas has gone.

DEAR ABBY...

The Dust Is Flying!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a different kind of mother-in-law problem. She isn't in my home five minutes when she drags out my vacuum sweeper, mop and dust cloth. Even when I explain that I have just given the place a thorough cleaning, she goes right ahead and pulls the house apart, moves the furniture and crawls under the beds looking for dirt. When I invite her for dinner she comes hours early and takes over the kitchen. I have had 14 years of homemaking experience and I feel I do a pretty good job. How can I let her know I do not need her help?

MAD.
DEAR MAD: Your mother-in-law obviously hasn't enough to keep her busy at home and is merely flexing her domestic muscles at your place. Let her have a good time.

DEAR ABBY: Please set a couple of teenagers straight as my advice is not wanted. They go steady and have decided to spend from $50 to $100 on each other for Christmas. They both work. Their wages are small and what is left weekly is $10 or less.

MOM.

DEAR MOM: I think they are spending too much on a single gift, but if they have earned the money, it's their privilege.

DEAR ABBY: A 16-year-old neighbor girl baby-sat for us last Saturday night. She asked me beforehand if her boyfriend could keep her company while she sat, and I didn't see any reason why he shouldn't. When we got home (about midnight) it was pitch dark in the house and the girl and her visitor appeared very rumpled and disarranged. My husband said that we should not permit this girl to have company again while she sits for us. How can I refuse her if she asks again, without implying that I don't trust her?

THE LADY ON THE CORNER.
DEAR CORNER: Whether she thinks you "trust" her is not as important as making sure that nothing regrettable happens in your home.

DEAR ABBY: I used to be a very heavy drinker. I had to have a shot of whiskey first thing in the morning so you know I was not exactly a "social drinker." I met a woman who said she would marry me if I quit drinking. I joined the AA and haven't had a drop of whiskey since New Year's, 1961. Now this woman says she changed her mind and doesn't love me enough to marry me. I am ready to start drinking again. Do you think she has been fair to me, and how can I get her to keep her promise?

SOBER BUT WEAKENING.
DEAR SOBER: Sobriety is your life-saver and this woman provided it. You owe her a lot.

Oilcloth Makes 'Quick-n-Easy' Yule Table

Only Scrooge himself could fail to enter into the round of parties and dinners during the Christmas holiday season.

Old friends find time to renew friendships; relatives gather; new friendships are formed over eggnog and turkey and mince pie.

But party giving should be fun for the hostess as well as the guests. In this day of servantless households, this means that the housewife has to operate at a high degree of efficiency.

She doesn't want to sacrifice any of the feeling of jollity, to be sure, but she wants to cut corners wherever possible.

It can be used in a variety of ways, is easy to handle, inexpensive and available in green and other holiday colors too.

For instance, a table covered in cheery red oilcloth can be criss-crossed with green "ribbons" to give the illusion of a large gift package. The "ribbons" are six-inch-wide strips cut from green oilcloth.

Add some red and green candles, some holly and a mound of Christmas tree ornaments. Your table will look as if it took hours of planning; actually, it requires just a few minutes. Red napkins and a festive dinnerware pattern also help to impart the cheerful holiday spirit.

Christmas Theme for Wedding Held in Oak Bay United Church

Bouquets of cedar boughs, holly and poinsettias in Oak Bay United Church set the Christmas theme for the Saturday night wedding of Verna Ann Brown and OSLM Raymond Lewis, RCN, Holly and white ribbons marked the guests' pews.

The dark-haired bride wore a floor-length gown of heavy white brocade made by herself and her mother. Classic gown was styled on princess lines with scoop neckline, long point sleeves and the skirt slightly on train. Double silk illusion fingertip veil was held with a white brocade flower. She carried a white Bible topped with red carnations and trailing white ribbons. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

DURING CEREMONY

Rev. A. Calder officiated at the candlelight ceremony. The processional "Praise My Soul The King of Heaven" was played by organist, R. Kroeger. Soloist, Stanley Martin sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and "Because" while the register was being signed.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Brown, 2131 Allenby Street and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lewis of Toronto, Ont.

Maid of honor, Miss Lynne Moore, Calgary and bridesmaid, Miss Wilma Brown, sister of the bride, wore identical bell-skirted dresses of red velvet. They carried white muffs trimmed with a sprig of holly. Tiny veils skirted their red velvet coronets.

THE RECEPTION

Christmas decorations were repeated at the reception held in the church hall. The bride's table was covered with her grandmother's white outwork tablecloth and centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with swans and surrounded with tulle and holly. Double white candles flanked the cake. Toast to the bride was proposed by George Clark.

The newlyweds left for Toronto where they will spend Christmas with the groom's family before returning to Halifax where the groom will rejoin HMCS Bonaventure. For a going-away outfit the bride chose a royal blue dress, grey plaid coat, grey accessories, white fur hat and a red carnation corsage.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders
MONTREAL, December 13th — Hearing hoofbeats behind you? First thing you know Donner and Blitzen and all the other reindeer will be dashing over the snow. If there are still some blank places against names on your Christmas shopping list, there's no need to panic. Just step off smartly to your neighbourhood branch of the BAY OF MONTREAL.

There's a good chance you'll be able to fill in every one of those worrying blanks there. You'll find gaily-decorated cheques and money orders in seasonal folders or envelopes—and, for the small fry, children's passbooks in special Yuletide covers. But time's a-wasting—see the B of M Xmas line-up soon.

1 'PINCH' THE MUSTARD as much, if not more, than any other seasoning on the shelf. Right now I'm making more hot, brown gravies and creamy sauces to satisfy winter appetites. And how my family loves the extra 'tang' that just a pinch of mustard gives... try it! Here's a weekly roast recipe I received recently from a Toronto reader: Preheat oven to 325°. Wipe roast with cloth dipped in vinegar. Add 1 tsp. COLMAN'S DRY MUSTARD to about 3 tbsp. corn oil or leftover grease. Coat roast with this mixture. Cook 30 minutes to pound for medium rare roast. And, in my next column, we'll simmer Mustard Dumplings with Colman's Dry Mustard.

STILL THE ONLY WAY to get clothes really white is to use RECKITT'S BLUE. It is now available in convenient, modern powder form, for use in both semi-automatic and fully-automatic washing machines! It comes in a handy package of six envelopes. You simply add the contents of one envelope to your wash at the same time as your soap. Inexpensive and easy to use, RECKITT'S BLUE actually helps to prevent yellowing. Try it the next time you do the washing. You'll see what I mean! Available at your neighbourhood grocery store.

A GOOD, GOOD COLD-WEATHER MEAL and one of my family's favorites is sauerkraut-'n'-spare ribs. I'm certain your family will like it, too, but be sure, for uniform flavour and mellow good taste, to serve LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT. High in appetite appeal and low in cost, Libby's is a favourite with everyone... delicious always, served hot with meat, cold in salads, or like this: — Spare ribs and Sauerkraut —

• 1 large piece ham or bacon rind or 3 strips bacon
• 1 28-oz. can (3½ cups) Libby's Sauerkraut, undrained
• 3 lbs. pork spare ribs
Place rind, fat side down, in the bottom of a large saucepan — or spread sliced bacon in the pan. Spread half of the undrained sauerkraut in pan; top with spare ribs, onion and remaining sauerkraut. Cover closely and simmer about 3½ hours, 4 servings.

THIS IS THE BLUSTERY TIME OF YEAR when I'm sure most of us think of summer-in-the-country... warm, soft breezes and soothing lake water. Well, I've discovered a mid-winter substitute!... a warm, fragrant bath made as soothing as summer Zephyrs... with CALGON BOUQUET. Just feel the winter tensions disappear when you bathe with Calgon Bouquet! Your bath water feels soft as silk... soap lathers luxuriously... it's like a summer holiday. You owe yourself the inexpensive luxury of a Calgon Bouquet bath... any time of a cold winter day. And, P.S. I... Calgon Bouquet makes the water so silky soft, there's never a "bath-tub ring".

'Go to Jail And You Just Keep Going'

COURTENAY — James Alfred Mohr, 28, Victoria, sentenced in police court Monday to four years in jail for theft, commended Magistrate Terry Ryan for being lenient to his friend who pleaded guilty to the same offence.

The friend was Barry Cragg, 18, also of Victoria, who received a two-year suspended sentence.

They broke into a Happy's Sporting Goods Store here and stole seven pistols. They also broke into the Waverly Hotel, Tarbell's Hardware and Sear's Shoes Ltd. at Cumberland.

'ASHAMED'

Mohr, described as the influence that led Cragg astray, told the court: "I'm deeply ashamed and sorry."

He said he had received many kindnesses from the Cragg family and he was sorry on that account.

"Once you go to jail, you just keep going," he told the magistrate.

Mohr had a criminal record dating back 10 years.

A third companion, Eric Stanley Detchain, 22, of Victoria, also pleaded guilty to the offences and was sentenced a total of two years and nine months.

COURTENAY — More charges were laid in police court Monday in connection with a brawl and stabbing a week ago on Mission Hill.

Edward Charles Lumley, 18, of Victoria, was charged with stabbing Michael Carey and Arne Godfred Anderson during a fight involving five men and two juveniles.

Lumley was remanded to Jan. 3 without plea. Bail was set at $250.

Carey spent a week in hospital with nine stab wounds in his body and arms. Anderson suffered three wounds but was not kept in hospital.

Carey, Anderson, Harvey Ronald Brown, and William Donald McLeod, 20, all from the Courtenay district, were charged Monday with assaulting Lumley and the two juveniles.

Brown and McLeod were each charged with criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle arising out of the brawl incident.

All were remanded without plea to Friday.

A Duncan juvenile, 17, pleaded guilty to wilful damage by breaking a car window with a bottle during the fight and was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate John Ryland. The youth said he had been frightened and provoked into the act.

The other juvenile, 17, from Victoria, was remanded to Friday on an earlier charge of causing a disturbance by fighting. All the others, except Carey, face similar charges laid a week ago.

DUNCAN — RCMP are investigating burglary of the Royal Canadian Legion, Cowichan branch, early Monday morning.

Sid Hall, secretary-manager, said the thieves broke a side window to gain entry. He said the locks on the entertainment machines had been broken and about $125 was stolen.

DUNCAN — School board trustees for Cowichan School District 65, learned Monday that tenders will be called for one classroom addition at Bench Elementary and two classrooms at Maple Bay Elementary School.

With these additions, Bench will have four rooms and Maple Bay will have six.

According to the policy of the department of education, tenders may be called only for the classrooms and not for the activity rooms.

The department also informed the board that plans for a music room at the Cowichan Senior Secondary School have been approved and the board's architect will be asked to prepare work drawings as soon as possible.

DUNCAN — Wolfgang Schamberger of Duncan, a high school student, has won first prize in a local Canadian Cancer Society high school essay contest.

Susan Mackenzie of Nanaimo was second.

SIDNEY — Fire severely damaged the entrance hall and front end of the roof of the Four-Square Gospel Hall in Sidney Monday night.

Damage is estimated at $4,600. According to Fire Chief Arthur Gardner the fire may have started in some material left by workmen who had been re-varnishing the church pews.

It started at about 9 p.m. Two city blocks in the village were blacked out when the blaze blew a fuse in a transformer.

DENNIS YOUNG

Young Coming Home

By JOHN MIKA
Times City Hall Reporter

City council Thursday is expected to confirm an informal decision to hire Dennis Young as the new city manager next year.

The move was predicted in The Times July 14.

Incumbent C. C. Wyatt is due to retire in September and aldermen previously decided they should select his successor by the beginning of the year.

Mr. Young, formerly comptroller-treasurer and assistant manager for Victoria, now holds the highest financial post in the Hamilton, Ont., civic government.

He is expected to take up duties as Victoria city manager July 1, probably at a raise over the present $13,500 salary the job carries.

Mayor R. B. Wilson would neither confirm nor deny the report, saying only: "Nothing has been confirmed yet."

END STRUGGLE

Decision to appoint Mr. Young to the post should end a power struggle in City Hall. It was learned that city engineer J. C. Garnett's name had been put forward. One alderman said Mr. Garnett had told him most city managers in North America were professional engineers.

Mr. Young probably was the most popular civic official at City Hall in recent years.

He joined the city as an accountant in 1950 and subsequently became comptroller-treasurer. In 1955 he also was appointed assistant manager after taking a special course in administration.

LIKES VICTORIA

In 1960 he applied for and won the appointment as commissioner of finance and treasurer for the city of Hamilton after a strong recommendation was made by Mr. Wyatt on his behalf.

Then-mayor Percy Scurrell and aldermen gave him a heart-felt send off and predicted he would make his mark in Canadian civic service.

But Mr. Young showed signs of homesickness for Victoria during annual vacations he spent here with friends and family.

Until the Hamilton post, he had lived all his life on Vancouver Island except for war duty overseas as a fighter pilot. A keen sportsman, he was disappointed with the hunting and fishing in eastern Canada and often wrote to friends of the better outdoor living here.

As a result, he was receptive when a city council delegation raised the question of his return as city manager.

Britain's annual production of toys is about $129,000,000, of which about $30,000,000 worth is exported.

School Board Won't Budge On Playfields

Perennial battle between Little League Baseball clubs and Greater Victoria School Board officials was resumed at a board meeting Monday night.

Hampton Little League wrote a letter to the board protesting refusal of the school trustees to allow Little League clubs use of school playing fields.

"We are experiencing a continuing expanding enrolment as you are," the letter read.

The organization pointed out that the same taxpayer supported local schools as local recreation facilities. It failed to understand why the board allowed minor soccer to be played on school grounds when the turf was wet, and yet forbade baseball which did no damage to grounds.

SAFETY FIRST

Buildings and grounds chairman Richard Reeve pointed out that while the Little League might have an enrollment of 4,500, board policy was designed "to protect the other 45,000 children who must be offered some opportunity for a free and safe place in which to play."

He emphasized the board had ruled against any form of hardball, golf or lacrosse being played on school grounds in the interests of safety.

Later in the meeting, as if in answer to the league's letter, the buildings and grounds committee announced it would be curtailing use of Brooke Street field by Fairfield Little League.

Mr. Reeve forecast the move in urging the board to turn down application by the ball club and Victoria parks committee to co-operate with the city in erecting a comfort station on the field, part of Sir James Douglas School property. The board rejected the request.

Kindergarten Expansion Held Unlikely

Pleas by parent-teacher bodies in Greater Victoria for establishment of more kindergartens in School District 61 were received by the school board Monday night.

However, it was made plain the board will not increase pre-school facilities at the expense of higher classes in local schools.

Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council stated in a letter to the board that it felt the district was "inadequately provided" with kindergartens. It urged the board make "every effort" to establish additional pre-school classes.

School trustee Richard Reeve said, however, the pressure of student population in relation to school facilities at present existing made such an increase unlikely "for the present time."

Father to Son Pass Completed

George Aylard of Sidney was elected president of the B.C. Jersey Breeders' Association at the annual meeting held in Vancouver recently.

Can you beat it?

If you tried to design the ideal car for Canada—wouldn't it be a lot like a Volkswagen?

Just add things up. Economy? This begins when you buy a VW and continues on your rare visits to the gas station.

Quality? The beetle is built to last—our '53's are still running around.

Reliability? Day in day out you start at the turn of a key.

Performance? Put yourself in the driver's seat and you'll see what we mean.

All this didn't just happen. Volkswagen became the ideal car for Canada because of the way it was built. And we are still making new friends in Canada.

For instance, Every VW sold in this country now contains Canadian parts and materials. Things like steel, tires, headlights, bumpers, and engine parts. This alone represents a six million dollar investment in Canadian manufactured goods. We believe in doing business with our customers.

After 10 years Volkswagen has a sizeable stake in Canada. Between our 346 dealers and ourselves we have invested

$4 million dollars in Canada's future and we provide jobs for 5,500 Canadians.

What more? Well consider this. Canada is a trading nation—it must trade to live. One of Canada's best customers is West Germany. The Volkswagen you buy helps Canada to sell West Germany a dollar and a half's worth of Canadian goods for every dollar's worth she buys in return. Imports pay for Exports. Make sense?

New Zoning Plan Backed Despite Casey's Delay Bid

Sanish lands and planning committee Monday unanimously recommended to next year's council approval in principle of new regulations for commercial zoning.

The committee approved the regulations over the protests of Coun. Joseph Casey who sought to delay action until next year.

The regulations are designed mainly to ensure proper and orderly development of commercial areas in the municipality, and to protect residential districts.

They govern local and general commercial developments, service stations and shopping centres.

Coun. Casey, who is not a member of the committee, sought repeatedly to have the regulations tabled.

Recalling that councillors had approved in principle the regulations at a previous meeting, subject to certain amendments, Coun. Robert Chard, chairman, reminded Coun. Casey that he was not a member of the committee.

"We are delighted to have you here as our guest... but I am simply asking the lands and planning committee to support it," said Coun. Chard. "As I am only a guest, Mr. Chairman, beg your leave to retire," said Coun. Casey.

Rifle Slaying Details Told; Man Committed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Longshoreman Peter Vanjoff, 36, Monday was committed for trial on a charge of capital murder in the Oct. 2 rifle slaying of Sidney Kovish at the United Grain Growers' dock here.

Alfred Kenny, another longshoreman, told a preliminary hearing he saw Vanjoff sitting in a car just before the shooting, with a rifle in the front seat beside him.

"It was standing upright the way the police have the guns in their cars," he said. He thought Vanjoff was going hunting with Kovish.

He said he saw Vanjoff pick up the rifle, and go towards a group of men. "I heard Kovish say 'let's talk this over.' I was 60 feet away. I heard the sound of a shot and saw Kovish fall to the ground. Pete got back in the car and drove away."

Wilbur Senger said he was with Kovish when Vanjoff stepped out of the car and cocked the rifle.

"I was eight feet away. I watched him squeeze the gun. Sid grabbed his stomach, spun around and fell face down with hands outstretched in front of him. Vanjoff walked over to Kovish's side; fired at his head. Kovish screamed."

A bear cub at birth weighs only about 12 to 15 ounces and is about eight or nine inches long. Its mother may weigh 500 pounds or more.

CANADIAN-BORN John Kennedy Galbraith said after conferring with President Kennedy Monday that he would remain in his post as ambassador to India for the duration of the emergency created by Red China's invasion of India's northern frontier.

Galbraith is on leave of absence from Harvard University, where he was Warburg professor of economics when appointed to the new Delhi post. His leave expires in April.

Senegalese President Wins Struggle

DAKAR, Senegal (AP)—President Leopold Senghor today apparently won a full victory in his power struggle with Premier Mamadou Dia in this west African republic.

The Senegalese National Assembly voted 51 to 9 with three abstentions to abolish the office of premier and place Senegal on a presidential-type system. The assembly also voted, by the same margin, to remove parliamentary immunity from Dia, thus laying him open to civil arrest.

The assembly has a total of 80 members, and Senghor's forces thus had a clear majority.

Troops loyal to Senghor blocked an attempted coup by Dia Monday in this recently independent country whose capital, Dakar, was one of the great Allied bases in the last years of the Second World War.

Dia, a Moslem but with strong support among Christian frictions, had been quarreling with Senghor over the party, the Senegal Progressist Union, which holds 79 of the 80 seats in the National Assembly.

SONS GETTING READY TO LEAVE HOPE CAMP

HOPE, B.C. (CP) — Village Chairman Paul Scherle said today the trekking Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are preparing to move.

Mr. Scherle said he asked the 1,300 Sons to leave here and seek leaders said they will go. He said he does not know where they will go.

The Sons are living in a Seventh-Day Adventist summer camp and the Adventists want the camp back before the pipes freeze, said Mr. Scherle.

Liberal Gets Smashing Win In Point Grey Byelection

3-WAY SESSION

Test Ban Talks Given Up

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union abandoned their efforts today to negotiate an end to nuclear testing by Jan. 1.

The three-power test-ban subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference held its last meeting before the conference goes into a Christmas recess.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin told the last three-power meeting that all the nuclear powers should stop testing by January 1, "regardless of whether we can reach agreement by that date or not."

Western officials said they regarded this as another hint that Russia is planning to declare a one-sided test suspension before the end of the year.

DETECTORS ARE KEY

The Western powers refuse to accept a ban on underground tests unless the Russians allow a certain number of on-site inspections a year to prevent cheating. The Russians have consistently rejected any on-site inspection, but have proposed the erection of three "black box" detectors in the Soviet Union to help keep check of suspicious earth tremors.

The disarmament conference resumes here on January 15. At the closing meeting of the test-ban subcommittee, the United States called on the Soviet Union to take part in a detailed scientific review of the black box proposal.

Four Killed In Collapse Of Concrete

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (AP) — A fire, apparently set off by rescue workers' acetylene torches, threw a new barrier today in the way of crews trying to reach four men believed buried in the rubble of a rocket-test silo which collapsed Monday.

Workers said the fire ignited some timbers and tarpaulins. The fire was brought under control and no one was injured, but water from fire trucks nullified efforts to clear out the 250-foot-deep pit where the missing men were feared dead in 700 tons of crumpled concrete and steel.

The freshly poured concrete which set off a chain-reaction collapse Monday was the first of six segments designed to cap the $10,000,000 test cell. It crashed through floors placed about 50 feet apart in the huge hole, carrying additional tons of concrete and steel to the bottom.

Social Credit Winds Up Third

FINAL STANDING

McGeer (Lib.)	21,669
Atherton (PC)	8,784
Burns-Miller (SC)	8,447
Holland (NDP)	5,302

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Patrick McGeer, polling almost as many votes as his three opponents combined, swept the Vancouver Point Grey byelection for the Liberal party Monday night.

The three-seat provincial constituency had been solidly Social Credit for six years. Not for nine years had the provincial government lost a seat in a byelection.

Reg. Atherton, 59, an accountant, pulled the Progressive Conservatives into second place with 8,784 votes to 8,447 for Mrs. Eve Burns-Miller, 62, the Social Credit candidate.

Anthony Holland, 42, the New Democratic Party candidate, trailed with 5,302.

Dr. McGeer, who polled 21,669, will represent the riding in the provincial house in conjunction with Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Social Crediter Tom Bate.

WIN IN 1960
In the 1960 general election, the voting went this way:

Mr. Bonner, 24,610; Mr. Bate, 23,950; Mrs. Burns-Miller, 23,583; all Social Credit and all elected.

Mrs. Burns, whose death this summer forced the byelection, was minister without portfolio.

The Liberals came next — F. C. Boyes, 17,438; Samuel Dumaresq, 15,107; Leslie Way, 14,827.

The CCF followed — Cliff Greer, 12,702; George Gibson, 12,158; Thomas Thomsen, 11,538.

The Progressive Conservatives trailed — Atherton, 6,774; Desmond Kidd, 6,453; Mrs. Mary Poole, 4,029.

Dr. McGeer's election Monday brings to five the number of Liberals in the B.C. legislature. There are 31 Social Crediters, 16 CCF-New Democratic Party members. There are no Progressive Conservatives.

CLAIM SECOND VICTORY

Liberals were hailed Dr. McGeer's victory as the second over Social Credit within a week.

On Dec. 12 Bill Rathie, a Liberal, won a four-way contest.

IS TIDE TURNING IN B.C.?

By FRANK RUTTER

The result of the Point Grey byelection may prove an historic turning point in B.C. politics.

Political leaders and observers today were assessing the result not only in terms of the smashing victory for the Liberals, but of the resounding defeat of Social Credit.

They were speculating if it is the beginning of the end for Premier Bennett's 10-year Social Credit government.

One byelection is not necessarily a general indicator. But Point Grey is the biggest riding in the province and the huge loss of votes by Social Credit — almost two-thirds — is regarded as more than usually significant.

NO ELECTION

The most likely effect will be to postpone any plans Premier Bennett may have had for calling a general election in 1963.

There had been talk of such a move to catch the Conservative party before it could properly reorganize under the new leadership of federal Works Minister E. Davie Fulton.

The defeat in Point Grey, according to one provincial party leader, will persuade the premier to wait at least until the fall of 1964, or maybe even until 1965, depending on how the political climate continues.

The terrific victory of Liberal Pat McGeer is conceded in part due to his exceptional personality: a double doctor, a sports star, something of a campus hero at the University of B.C. and member of a famous political family.

But the size of the victory would indicate more than this. Not only did he thrash the Social Credit, he trampled the Conservative and New Democratic party candidates as well.

Both these parties were looking to Point Grey for strong indications of their future chances.

While the Conservatives

Friendship Theme as Talks Between Mac, JFK Begin

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan stressed close United States-British friendship in a meeting today under a brilliant sun.

A crowd estimated at 2,500 Bahamians and visitors watched from the flag-decked airport balcony and sidewalks as Kennedy's jet airliner rolled to a stop shortly before 11 a.m. The plane had twice overflown Windsor field to kill time, having made a fast flight of less than two hours from Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland, near Washington.

Macmillan expressed pleasure at the weather here, a warm contrast with fall conditions in both Washington and London.

The prime minister said he had met 16 times with American presidents and he had found that "the most important and vital element of all such conferences was the close association between two countries."

He reminded Kennedy that

Britain and the U.S. have been through "much together in the past" and said they looked forward with high hopes to the future.

Kennedy responded warmly to Macmillan's welcome, recalling that this is their sixth meeting during his own two years in the presidency. (See also page 3.)

The president said he was not sure the world was much better off after each of their meetings, but that he had benefited greatly from "the counsel and friendship you have shown to me."

LIKES CLIMATE

Kennedy also said he believed they did better with their talks when they had met in a warm climate and he described New Providence Island, site of the Bahamas capital of Nassau, as a fitting place for this conference, "an island in the sun."

The president is staying at the home of Toronto financier E. P. Taylor, in the luxurious Lyford Cay development. Macmillan is staying next door at the home of Mrs. W. R. C. Holt.

The original plan for the conference of Macmillan and Kennedy was for a general survey of the world after the Cuban crisis.

But that crisis has since been overshadowed by the Skybolt issue, a crucial one in Britain's budgetary planning, and divisions within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization such as European resistance to the American idea that ground forces should be built up to levels adequate for defence in conventional warfare.

The London Daily Mail reports Macmillan will ask Kennedy for a "stay of execution" of the Skybolt decision for at least three months.

This delay would enable Britain still to claim she is a nuclear power as she faces the six-nation European Common Market in the hard bargaining still coming up over her admission to the trading bloc.

enough qualified personnel to "exploit the opportunities and fulfill the responsibilities that develop."

English-Canadians, in managerial levels and in the federal public service "must accept the changes which are required to make a reality of full partnership," Mr. Pearson said.

Mr. Pearson's speech turned debate on an interim subject motion, up to now chiefly concerned with the Columbia River, into a day-long discussion of English-French culture.

Separatists Form New Quebec Party

MONTREAL (CP) — Division within the movement to have Quebec secede from the rest of Canada appeared several hours after separatist leader Marcel Chaput's announcement last night of formation of a new provincial political party.

Early today the separatist movement Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale issued a statement dissociating itself from the new party. RIN members who joined the party were threatened with expulsion.

The 44-year-old Chaput, once president of the RIN announced at a press conference the new party, called Le Parti Républicain du Québec (Republican Party of Quebec), would seek independence for the province.

He said he believes "eventually" the time has come for a union of the forces seeking separatism.

But the RIN said in its statement Mr. Chaput's decision to form a political party at this time "will slow the progress of the cause of independence."

The RIN said it will become a political party in spring 1964, as was decided at its last general meeting.

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — A national crisis looms over Canada, the Commons was told Friday. To avert it, Canadians must come to grips with the fact they live in a bicultural country.

Opposition Leader Pearson said the federal government should confer with the provinces in an effort to establish a full inquiry into Canada's bilingual problems.

Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny said the federal government had already taken steps in this connection. A Dominion-provincial conference would be called early in the new year to discuss national symbols.

"As long as the Canadian nation has not rallied around these symbols... we shall continue to see demonstrations such as the ones recently involving the president of the CNR (Donald Gordon)," he said.

Real Caouette, deputy leader of the Social Credit party, said Mr. Pearson "delivered the best speech of his career."

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) said his party would give wholehearted support to efforts to establish mutual respect between the two cultures.

Mr. Pearson had said that the time was past for papering

For Some, No Gifts Off the Tree

When the annual Sunday School party at St. Alban's Anglican Church is held a couple of days after Christmas, almost all the children will get gifts off a Christmas tree.

But there will be children from two classes for whom there will not be any gifts. They said they didn't want any this year.

Instead they gave the money that would have been spent on the gifts to the Times appeal for "Friendship Dollars for India."

The idea of giving a donation to the appeal instead of receiving Christmas presents was put to the children by their teachers, Mrs. A. E. Miller, 1439 Myrtle Ave. and her daughter, Miss Doris Miller.

There were hardly any objections and not one of the youngsters in the six-to-eight group had to be coaxed at all. They all wanted to participate in the donation for the less fortunate children of India.

And just as these youngsters want to help, so help is also coming from the very old. Nathan E. Watts of Sidney, who was 95 years old last July, has sent a $5 donation to the Times appeal.

These people, and all the others who have so far given a total of $7,367 this year, realize how worthwhile it is to support the work of the Indian Service Committee in India through the Times appeal.

The USC engages in relief and rehabilitation work in some of the most poverty-stricken parts of that country. And to continue the work the USC relies on public contributions from Canadians.

Contributions should be sent to "Friendship Dollars for India," c/o The Times, 2631 Douglas, or should be left at the Bank of Montreal, Douglas and Yates.

The Times will publish an acknowledgement of all donations and the USC will send an official receipt later for income tax purposes.

Centennial Flashback...

DECEMBER 18

Many fine blocks of freestone were removed from the Hudson's Bay Company's warehouse today for construction of a monument in the public cemetery in memory of the late Mr. Carroll. The monument will be of the gothic style of architecture and will be seven feet six inches at the base and 16 feet in height. The blocks of stone to be used in its construction weigh between three and six tons.

The Rosedale, the ship that ran aground in Ross Bay, was finally towed into Esquimalt Harbor today. She was lashed between the Thames and the Sheet Anchor and towed by the gunboat Grappler. Most of her cargo is still on board. She will be beached shortly for repairs.

A sub-contractor and a small party of men left today aboard the schooner Explorer for Comox. The party will work southward on the Nanaimo-Comox road which is expected to be finished by the end of January.

A small, colored man was found lying dead early this morning at the corner of Broad and Johnson Streets. Cause of death is believed to be small-pox.

'Full Lunch Bucket' or Preservation?

By ARTHUR MAYSE

British Columbia's hot-potato conversation issue—whether to log Strathcona Park's massive fir or let them stand—reached the stage of public debate Monday evening in the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association clubhouse on Goldstream Flats.

There, before an outdoors-minded audience peppered with park branch officers and saluted with lumbermen, secretary-director Alex Hendry of Victoria Plywoods Ltd. and provincial parks planner Robert Ahrens argued the pros and cons of a modified use program for the 504,000-acre Strathcona wilderness.

For half an hour after they had concluded their formal arguments, Mr. Ahrens and Mr. Hendry, who had been with a crackling question-barrage from 150 club members and visitors.

While the debate was confined to the logging question, the less-publicized matter of legalized intrusion by mining interests was touched on by Mr. Ahrens during the question period. He pointed out that legislation which sanctions prospecting in Strathcona also allows the government to buy up park mineral properties under development.

Over-Cutting

Warning that British Columbia is heavily over-cutting her available fir stands, Mr. Hendry suggested that the province could benefit from the experience of other lands.

"In Europe," he said, "we find that most forests are a combination park, game preserve and timber source. In the United States where there are national parks, covering vast areas and including large tracts of merchantable timber, we find moves on foot to transfer portions to national forests so that they may be logged.

"Even in Canada, we find the Canadian Institute of Forestry discussing the question of whether we can afford to lock up huge tracts of valuable timber in our parks."

Inadequate Fir

Sawmills, according to Mr. Hendry, have turned to hemlock as their principal raw material because there isn't enough fir to fill their requirements.

"Douglas fir is the main constituent of our plywood industry," he said, "and is likely to remain so because of its superior strength."

"Further, if we are to retain and expand our overseas markets for this product, we must continue to manufacture it of Douglas fir, as our competitors in the United States have an abundance of this material and are not likely to change to any other."

Mr. Hendry offered controlled logging, by crown company if the government so wished, as a source of revenue for park development. Logging, he argued, would provide needed access roads and campsites in Strathcona. As to objections based on "the unsightly mess" logging creates, he saw this as an erroneous conception.

"It overlooks the speed with which nature heals the scars. Further, a young growing forest is much more desirable than a mature one. It harbors more game and is much more valuable from a water conservation viewpoint."

He concluded with the assurance that he was not advocating alienation of the park, but its orderly development.

"Although it is the desire of conservationists to see it preserved in its present state in perpetuity," Mr. Hendry said, "this is impossible."

"Nature is continuously changing our environment, and part of this change is the growth and death of all things, including trees. In spite of our best efforts, Strathcona Park in 200 or 300 years will not be as it is today. Isn't it only common sense to use its valuable assets to create the jobs we sorely need?"

Laughter, Jeers

Mr. Hendry's repeated contention that Strathcona's fir forests would over-mature and die as a unit was greeted with laughter and jeers by his woods-wise audience. "Outdoorsmen rose to cite Cathedral Grove as an example of a tract where very old evergreens and new growth share the same land."

"Are you trying to tell us those big trees will all fall down together?" one dissenter challenged.

Asked how large a commercial enterprise the Strathcona fir stands would maintain, Mr. Hendry said they would support a plywood plant "the size of B.C. Forest Products." Revenue produced would run $15 per thousand board feet over production costs which would include road-building.

Mr. Ahrens, assistant parks branch director for the provincial recreation and conservation department, stressed the distinction between park and forest management.

Different Eyes

Forester, logger and conservationist, he told his audience, see a wooded tract through different eyes.

'Very Active Press' Wins JFK Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Monday night a free society could not be governed without a very active press.

In a radio-television report on his first two years in office, Kennedy said Soviet Premier Khrushchev's totalitarian system of secrecy gives him many advantages but he is under "a terrific disadvantage" in not having "the abrasive quality of the press" applied to him daily.

"Even though we never like it," the president said, "and even though we wish they did not write it, and even though we disagree, there isn't any doubt that we could not do the job at all in a free society without a very, very active press."

Dief Not Planning Visit With Kennedy

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday he has no plans to visit President Kennedy following a meeting with Prime Minister Macmillan in The Bahamas Dec. 21.

The Diefenbaker-Macmillan meeting will follow two days of talks in The Bahamas between Mr. Macmillan and the U.S. president.

MATHER seeks assurance

FUTURE OF PARKS 'UP TO YOU'

If British Columbia's park system is to remain intact, it's up to you.

This was the blunt challenge issued to the public Monday night by assistant parks director Robert Ahrens.

"Meetings such as this one," he told a sportsman audience in Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association clubhouse, "suggest that interest in provincial parks is not altogether lacking or disorganized."

"Will the government hear from individuals or an organized park association what the public at large wishes?" Mr. Ahrens demanded.

"In the long run, whether we continue to have and enjoy parks depends not on professionals or administrators, but rather on the man in the street."

"The maintenance of a first-rate park system depends on how clearly the citizen expresses his wishes with respect to parks to his elected government. We may feel sure that private interests will bring strong pressure to bear on government to achieve their ends in our parks."

A-Arms Pressure Denied by Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker denied Monday there is any pressure on the government to acquire nuclear weapons.

He was replying in the Commons to Barry Mather (NDP—New Westminster) who referred to reports of "mounting pressure" on Canada to acquire such weapons.

Mr. Mather sought assurance that any government decision will be referred to Parliament or the public.

"There is no pressure being placed against the Canadian government," the prime minister replied. He said that made the rest of Mr. Mather's question "inoperative."

Tom Berger (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) then tried his way: Would the government refer the matter to Parliament or the public before a decision is announced?

That implies that the government has decided on such a course, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

TRIES AGAIN
So Mr. Berger tried again: Had the government decided to acquire nuclear weapons?

Mr. Diefenbaker answered that government policy has been brought to the attention of Parliament and the public, as will any change in that policy.

"What policy?" shouted someone from the back benches.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson asked Associate Defence Minister Seigney whether there is "a useful role" for the Bomarc missile and the Voodoo jet interceptor without equipping them with nuclear warheads.

Speaker Marcel Lambert intercepted the question and ruled it out of order as being argumentative.

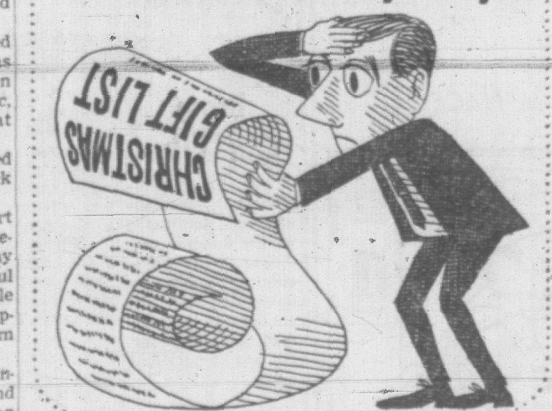

Mr. Thompson protested that the answer could be a simple yes or no, and there was "no ulterior motive" behind the question, but Mr. Lambert still would not allow it.

NEW YORK (AP) — Life Magazine will publish next Monday a special 64-page edition, devoted only to local news and sold only in the New York metropolitan area.

It is an outgrowth of the printers' strike which has shut down the city's nine major newspapers.

ROBERT AHRENS "impossible"

ALEX HENDRY controlled logging

"Everybody's in favor of parks," he observed, "just so they don't interfere with his private ambitions!"

As to the concept of an over-mature forest "puffing over," he referred to the solid expanse of self-perpetuating woodland that greeted the first white man.

"And we had no forest management in those days, either," he said, to laughter from the floor.

TUES., DEC. 18, 1962

for public enjoyment, Mr. Ahrens saw "as a use which by its very nature, excludes other uses."

Removal of one component or disturbance of the environment destroys the wilderness.

"Talk of selective logging in such areas so as to leave them natural or unimpaired is unconvincing," he said, "obviously so in coastal forests. The logging operator on the coast works with heavy, powerful machinery in big trees. To expect him to log an area being preserved, and to leave it unscathed, is simply to expect the impossible. This does not prevent some people from promising the impossible!"

'Much Poorer'

Attacking what he termed the "full lunch bucket" argument against preservation of natural-area parks, Mr. Ahrens said:

"If in our headlong pursuit of miles of blacktop, two cars in every family, and a boat with a trailer, we sell ourselves short of accessible natural landscape, our standard of living is not as high as it could be. Collectively, we would be much poorer without these parks. Can we afford them? Let us ask, can we afford not to have them?"

Underlining his stand that parks branch concern is for "preservation of a specific kind of recreational environment, not the practice of industrial forestry," Mr. Ahrens suggested that the loggers' record for preserving forest health is not good.

"The forest inventory of B.C.," he said, "shows that 19,000,000 acres now classified as forest land is either unsatisfactorily restocked, or is covered with weed species, or for some other reason is not in good health. If loggers, foresters and others are concerned with the practice of good forestry, perhaps their attention should be directed not to parks, but to these acres."

"It is questionable that the industry which has managed your forest lands is qualified to manage your parks."

Chairman was Garry Williams, president of the 1,200-member fish and game group.

HOTEL, MOTEL PLAN OKAYED

A total of 63 acres of farmland adjacent to Beaver Lake was rezoned by Saanich council Monday for use as a hotel and motel centre.

The rezoning application, submitted by Victoria lawyer Foster Isherwood, was approved following a public hearing at which no opposition was given.

Mr. Isherwood hopes to develop the site as a large hotel centre with swimming pools and other forms of recreational activities.

The Saanich advisory planning commission has approved but insists on a minimum of 250 feet setback from the existing highway for buildings and the development of adequate parking areas.

The property is situated on the west side of the Patricia Bay Highway south of Beaver Lake.

Go out on a limb, serve Seagram's Gin

That's the spirit! While most folks deck the halls with colourless gins, you serve up Seagram's Gin with its hint of amber colour. The difference, of course, is dryness. By ageing Seagram's Gin longer we remove unwanted sweetness and perfumery. As the gin becomes crisply dry, Nature supplies that amber tint. So remember, 'tis the season to serve Seagram's. Because it's extra dry.

School Board to Experiment With Teaching Machines Next September

By IAIN HUNTER

Advances of the machine age will be applied to selected groups of pupils in Greater Victoria schools in the 1963-64 teaching year, it was forecast at a meeting of the school board Monday night.

Following a submission by Dennis Brown, supervisor of curricular and special services for District 61, superintendent of schools John Gough said it was hoped to experiment with teaching machines in some schools next year.

Mr. Brown urged the board to allot half of one per cent of its annual budget to experimentation with teaching machines and programed learning in local schools.

He explained to trustees that the program learning technique breaks down courses into small sequences, each sequence to be a basis for the next step in a school subject.

The step-by-step approach would allow each pupil to proceed at his own pace. Bright children would advance faster and slow learners would be allowed more time to master various subjects, he said.

Mr. Brown said he did not think the more expensive teaching machines, costing thousands of dollars per unit, need be considered by the district. He did advocate, however, use of a program book and a question and answer kit for individual use by pupils.

The program book provides a sliding sleeve covering one half of a page bearing answers to questions carried on the other half.

The kit contains windows in which a question appears. The pupil writes in his answer in another window, and by turning a roller, can produce the correct answer for comparison with his own.

"The advantage of such a system in each case is that either by turning a roller or sliding down the sleeve of the book, the pupil is provided with an immediate indication whether or not he has mastered the sequence," Mr. Brown told trustees.

He said that "cheating" by students could be guarded against by teacher-set tests, and by the fact that the pupil would be "completely lost in a few pages" if he did not master each successive step in order.

Mr. Brown claimed it was found children enjoyed using a system which provided them with instant answers so much that they were encouraged to "go on and on."

Mr. Gough told trustees that after inspecting sound "laboratories" as set up in Shawnigan Lake School for boys, he felt the "aural-oral" learning machines could be deferred "for another year" in the Greater Victoria district.

Dictaphone booths for individual pupils had been set up at Shawnigan for teaching of languages. But it was felt tape recorders provided with multiple earphones might be more suited to this district, he said.

Mr. Brown emphasized he was not advocating adoption of the machines to the board.

"First of all we must find the program which is most closely allied to our own present one, and we must find teachers who are enthusiastic and willing to try the new techniques," he said.

"It would not do to try and force this on any teacher."

It was agreed the board would make further study of the question before initiating an experimental program.

ARTHUR MAYSE

In our lives there was one Christmas Eve like none before or after. I wouldn't call it our best, because every Christmas is that, but it did have a quality which makes it stand apart.

We had been married long enough to be sure this was the road we would walk as long as the powers allowed us. Except for a bossy black spaniel, we were without dependents. Alone in Toronto, we had been luxuriating for half a year in the freedom a young couple enjoys before house and children bring their amiable burden of responsibility.

I was getting out a trade magazine—a job which consisted chiefly of cannibalizing other such publications—and with the dreary little creature safe abed, I knocked off early.

Win, met me in the black squirrel park behind Royal Ontario Museum where the snow lay smooth and the elms stood gaunt against a luminous sky. Lazily strolling, we wondered what to do with our Christmas Eve.

We considered going to a party, or shoe-horning ourselves into a train for Montreal or New York. But the mood somehow wasn't right for either, and we went home with nothing decided.

Home was a room in a large and ancient brick house on Admiral Road. The population of that once-fashionable street consisted mostly of landladies, furnacemen, and young apartment dwellers such as we.

Our furnaceman was off at his favorite beer parlor with Lucky the spaniel, but our landlady met us in the hall. We wished her Merry Christmas. Then, because she was Jewish, we asked her (diplomacy still unlearned) if the sentiment was in order.

She smiled at us, one of the kindest women we've ever known.

"We honor everything that is good," she answered, and gave us a little plum pudding and asked if we had enough blankets.

At the furnaceman had left his own gift, a tumbler of the authentic Newfoundland "screw" which he obtained from some mysterious fountainhead.

We drank his health—one swallow of that potion was enough—then, still with no Christmas Eve plans, decided that reciprocal gifts were called for. After arranging the day's Christmas cards on the enormous black walnut table that came with the room, we set out for Bloor Street.

Shopping our way along, we neared the Spadina intersection and found a Christmas tree lot. We wandered into this odorous forest, assuring each other that a tree would be nonsense, and came out with a three-foot jackpine, scandalously priced.

The little gap-toothed vendor knocked off fifty cents.

"A gift," he announced, "from me to you, and compliments of the season!"

Dusk had now deepened into a crisp night diamonded with stars. Trudging between four-foot banks with the dry snow squeaking under our shoes and the serotiny jackpine under my arm, I started a cynical remark about the tree-seller's gift.

But the Soldier's Tower carillon chose that moment to begin filling the night with its mellow clangor. I looked at Win with her arms full of packages, and she looked at me, and we both knew some magic had been building and mounting through these aimless-seeming hours.

"Hey!" my wife said in a voice of pleased discovery, "all of a sudden it's Christmas Eve!"

And so it was, in spirit as well as fact. We went home by snowy streets with the carillon bells pealing their music to the frosty stars.

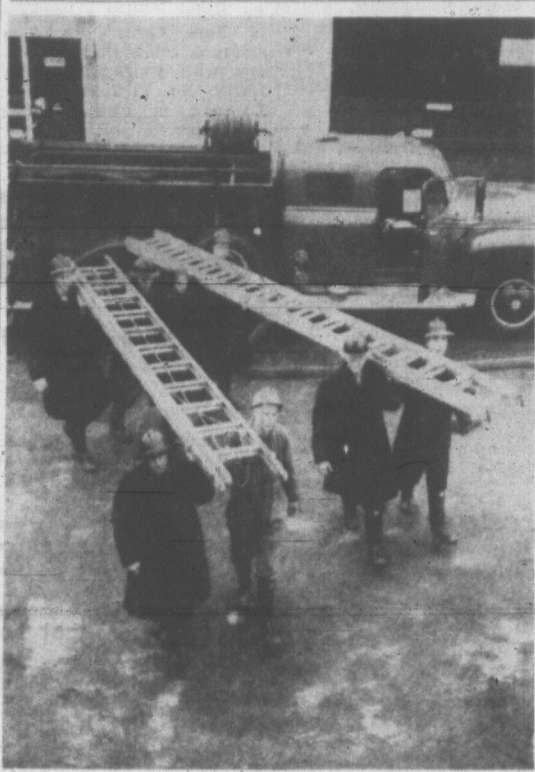

Arrived, we raided the basement for a flower pot big enough to hold our tree, which was a fine tree after all. Decorations were scarce in those years, but we made do with popcorn and cotton-wool, a handful of silver foil, and a happiness that needed no New Year's resolutions to bolster it.

Next year we had a son and a house and a glittering tree to brush the ceiling.

Still, we have never forgotten the other, earlier Christmas Eve when we lacked all these.

Looking back now, I think that was the time when we became more than two young people casually linked by marriage. We established a tradition, a mystique, if you will, and by so doing turned a rented room into a home.

And when a home has been established, a couple even though childless, becomes a family.

Firemen 'Graduate'

Presentation of proficiency certificates to 12 Saanich auxiliary firemen will be made in January.

The civil defence volunteers completed their training program Monday night at Saanich firehall, under direction of deputy chief Glen Robbins and fire department officers. Four men of the original class failed.

A second class in basic fire-fighting will be given in January, when a new class for advanced training also is planned.

If a proposed agreement with the army can be reached, Saanich also will train a number of Victoria militia men.

W. R. Webb, 998 Jasmine; Raymond Ramsay, 599 Sedgwick; A. L. Shaw, 801 Daffodil; David J. McClelland, 3348 Whittier, and T. H. Hunt, 2921.

CADDY AWAY FOR CHRISTMAS?

Woman 'Shoots' Serpent

Has Cadborosaurus, Victoria's fun-loving sea serpent, gone Up-Island for the Yuletide holidays?

This question is intriguing devoted followers of Caddy since a man and wife at Lantzville, north of Nanaimo, reported sighting a sea serpent Monday and, more important, photographing it.

W. G. Clark was clearing logs from the beach in front of his home when he saw a "round, ball-like head in the water." He called to his wife, who ran down to the beach with her 8 mm movie camera, with telephoto lens attached, and shot about 2½ feet of film—about 15 seconds.

Mrs. Clark reports that the "creature" disappeared in the direction of Nanossee Bay at a rate of knots, and that a boat moored to the shore obscured vision of "the thing" just before it disappeared.

MOVED FAST

She said the thing was moving at tremendous speed, about 100 yards offshore.

Mrs. Clark said that later in the day, about noon, two friends noticed a great "thrashing about" in the calm water near the Nanossee Bay breakwater.

Mrs. Audrey Barry and another friend told Mrs. Clark they distinctly saw a head and at least one hump.

Mrs. Clark loaned the film to the CBC television news representative at Nanaimo, and it may be shown on the 6:45 news tonight on Channel 2.

$300 REWARD

If the film turns out all right and a publishable picture of Caddy results, the Clarks will be $300 richer—the Times standing reward for a photograph of Cadborosaurus.

The Times and the Clarks are awaiting developments.

Eleven-year-old Eric Samuel Lundgren died in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan today from injuries received when he was struck by a car on the Trans-Canada Highway last Wednesday.

Driver of the car, Louis Williams, Duncan, has been charged with impaired driving. RCMP said a more serious charge may be laid.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Lundgren, North Island Highway, the boy was a student at Somenes Elementary School. He has a brother, Douglas.

He was riding his bicycle two and a half miles north of Duncan when the accident occurred.

Funeral services will be held from First Funeral Chapel on Saturday at 2 p.m. Rev. R. F. Stephenson will officiate.

Injured Family Finds Friends

Future Brighter For Newcomers

It's going to be a wonderful Christmas for the Lutes after all.

They are the young family, newcomers to Victoria, whose car went out of control and crashed at Royal Oak and Patricia Bay Highway Sunday evening, putting all five in hospital.

Three weeks ago Robert Lutes, 25, and his 22-year-old wife Carolyn Ann loaded their three children and all their possessions in a small car and drove from Ottawa to Victoria.

FOUND JOB

They wanted to make a new life out here and it quickly seemed as if they were going to succeed. He got a job as salesman with Victoria Photo Supply and was doing well at it. The couple looked for a house.

Then on Sunday night, as they returned from a children's party at the home of Robert's boss, Fred Tanner, their car flipped over twice and spilled some of them out on the pavement.

The most seriously injured was 18-month-old Jacqueline, whose leg was gashed from ankle to hip. It was feared she might be hurt internally too.

ON THE MEND

But today all members of the family are getting better. Four-year-old Jamie has been released from hospital. And strangers who got to know and like the young family in its short time in Victoria are rallying around.

Mr. Tanner is taking Jamie into his home. And he has told the boy's father that he doesn't need to worry about his job. That will be waiting for him when he leaves hospital.

The owners of the Edgewater Motel, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Donaldson, where the Lutes were staying, have also offered to help when the rest of them get out of hospital.

MORE HELP

Mrs. Hamilton Downes, who occupies the unit next to the one where the Lutes stayed, has offered to look after the children too, until Mrs. Lutes fully recovers from the accident.

Home Lighting Tour Planned By Car Club

City householders with Christmas light displays are asked to have them on early tonight when a group of hot-rodders take aged residents of Maison Sunset Lodge for a sightseeing tour.

The 25-member Coachmen club, organized only a few weeks ago, will take their guests out between 7 and 9 p.m. for a look at lights they may not otherwise have the opportunity to see.

"They are trying to do good, and are ready to participate in any civic affairs for a worthy cause," a spokesman for the boys said.

The tours will concentrate on Oak Bay and Uplands areas, where many lighting displays are concentrated.

The baby is reported to be in "fair" condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital. In St. Joseph's Hospital, Mr. and Mrs. Lutes and Janet, 3½, are in "good" condition.

Mr. Lutes is impatient to get out and back to work. If he is released before Christmas he will find that arrangements for a festive celebration have all been made by his new friends.

Despite the setback, Mrs. Lutes is happy. She is thankful that all of her family are alive.

Fatal Crash Survivor Improving

Lone survivor of the two-car crash on the Island Highway Saturday which claimed three lives is in "improved condition today."

Cheryl McBratney, 18, of 849 Kindersley, was driver of one of the cars involved in the accident about 3:30 p.m.

Witnesses said she alone of the four occupants of the two cars was wearing a seat belt.

She was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with internal injuries following the crash.

Passenger in her car, Donald Tyrrell, 21, of 907 Forsyth, died in hospital shortly after, and driver of the other car, William Jackson, 27, of 906 Gordon, was believed killed instantly.

Neil Campbell MacDonald, 22, of 2315 Fernwood, a passenger in the Jackson car, died in hospital early Sunday morning.

INQUESTS SOON

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said inquests into the three deaths will be held shortly, but only for purposes of viewing the bodies. He said the inquests would then be adjourned until Miss McBratney had recovered sufficiently to be able to give testimony.

She is expected to be in hospital two or three months, Dr. Moore said.

Inquest into the traffic death Saturday morning of Flying Officer Leonard Milholliff, 21, of 122 Lowlands, has been scheduled for Wednesday morning at Chaplain's funeral parlour.

He was driver of a small car involved in a collision with one driven by David Whitehead, 20, of 240 King George Terrace, about 1:30 a.m. at North Park and Quadra.

ASK THE TIMES

His Christmas Spirit 'Complete Departure'

A soldier who thought he could save money on Christmas presents by stealing them lost both the presents and a further $50 as a fine in city police court today.

Roy A. Wilson, 18, of Work Point Barracks, pleaded guilty to theft of a woman's sweater and a bottle of perfume from the T. Eaton Co., Douglas St., Monday.

He said he was going to give the stolen articles as Christmas presents. Total value of the articles was $22.73.

"This is a complete departure from the Christmas spirit," Magistrate William Ostler told the accused.

"I am sure the recipient would rather have some small present which you had bought with your own money."

The magistrate also warned that he was considering "more stringent measures" against shoplifters.

"There is altogether too much shoplifting in this community, and it is increasing," he said.

ON PAROLE

He was on parole from a previous prison term on a breaking and entering charge at the time of the assault court was told.

"It is obvious you are an extremely dangerous individual, and you will have to be put away for the protection of society," Magistrate Thomas said.

He was sentenced to two years on the common assault charge and three years on the indecent charge. Both sentences are to be served concurrently.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Operation Pain in the Neck began at City Hall this morning—hand signing of 1,115 debenture bonds for the $1,115,000 civic parking garage program.

Each one of the bonds—in denominations of $1,000—must be signed by comptroller-treasurer James Bramley and Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"We can't use a facsimile machine—they all have to be signed by hand," said Mr. Bramley.

After penning his name to about 250 of the bonds, his hand was beginning to cramp and muscles at the base of the neck were growing tired!

The Civil Service Association of Canada has elected a new slate of officers: F. G. King, president; R. N. Clegg, vice-president; Lily B. Northam, secretary-treasurer; D. H. Rupel, A. E. Penderay, J. West, E. G. Miller, Lawrence Fieldhouse, H. L. Guest, R. A. Campbell, R. J. Kelly, directors.

League of Roses "Lanes-Yorks" will hold its Christmas party on Thursday at 8 p.m. in Loughs Hall, 1406 Douglas Street.

Twenty-five men and women will be sworn in as Canadian citizens by Judge J. B. Clearhue in Victoria County Court Wednesday at 10 a.m.

Greater Victoria Citizenship Council will extend its usual welcome to the New Canadians in Eaton's restaurant after the ceremony.

Oak Bay council has tentatively agreed to pay about $18,000 toward estimated costs of $1,000,000 for expansion of Royal Jubilee Hospital nurses' residence, clinical laboratory and steam plant.

Greater Victoria municipalities will pay some $140,000 of the total, Oak Bay's share being the usual 14.28 per cent intermunicipal split.

Old Age Pensioners, Saanich Branch No. 55, will hold a Christmas dinner in St. Mark's Hall on Boleskine Road Friday at 5 p.m.

B.C. Hydro will award four scholarships next year to Victoria College students.

They are part of a $7,000 scholarship program announced by a Hydro spokesman today.

The Victoria awards will be $250 each to pay for 1963-64 tuition fees.

They will be for general proficiency standing of students who have completed at least one year and intend to continue university studies.

The government-owned body will also award 12 scholarships to students at the University of B.C.

These will include five $750 awards for agriculture, chemical engineering, civil engineering, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering or physics; two $750 scholarships for students of the humanities or social sciences and five $150 awards for final year students in chemical, civil, electrical physics and mechanical engineering.

City policemen's union president Lorne Shandley notified the city police commission that the union will renegotiate its expiring contract rather than renew it. He did not reveal what the policemen's requests would be. Commission decided to arrange a meeting with the union in January.

Allen P. Nickell, 19, of Dawson Creek, was sentenced today to two years in prison for uttering a forged document and six months concurrent on a charge of false pretences.

He had pleaded guilty Monday to cashing a forged cheque for $30 at the T. Eaton Co., Douglas Street, Thursday, and to obtaining $425 worth of meat at the same store Friday, charging it to a false account.

Big Liberal Win In Point Grey

FINAL STANDING

McGeer (Lib.)	21,669
Atherton (PC)	8,784
Burns-Miller (SC)	8,447
Holland (NDP)	5,302

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Patrick McGeer, polling almost as many votes as his three opponents combined, swept the Vancouver Point Grey byelection for the Liberal party Monday night.

The three-seat provincial constituency had been solidly Social Credit for six years. Not for nine years had the provincial government lost a seat in a byelection.

Reg Atherton, 59, an accountant, pulled the Progressive Conservatives into second place with 8,784 votes to 8,447 for Mrs. Eve Burns-Miller, 62, the Social Credit candidate.

Antony Holland, 42, the New Democratic Party candidate, trailed with 5,302.

Dr. McGeer, who polled 21,669, will represent the riding in the provincial house in conjunction with Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Social Credit Tom Bate.

In the 1960 general election, the voting went this way:

Mr. Bonner, 24,610; Mr. Bate, 23,950; Mrs. Burns-Miller, 23,583; all Social Credit and all elected.

Mrs. Brown, whose death this summer forced the byelection, was minister without portfolio.

The Liberals came next—F. C. Boyes, 17,438; Samuel Dumaresq, 15,107; Leslie Way, 14,827.

The CCF followed—Cliff Greer, 12,702; George Gibson, 12,158; Thomas Thomassen, 11,538.

The Progressive Conservatives trailed—Atherton, 6,774; Desmond Kidd, 6,453; Mrs. Mary Poops, 4,029.

Dr. McGeer's election Monday brings to five the number of Liberals in the B.C. legislature. There are 31 Social Crediters, 16 CCF-New Democratic Party members. There are no Progressive Conservatives.

Liberals were bailing Dr. McGeer's victory as the second over Social Credit within a week.

On Dec. 12 Bill Rathie, a Liberal, won a four-way contest.

SONS READY TO LEAVE HOPE CAMP

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—Village Chairman Paul Scherle said today the trekking Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are preparing to move.

Mr. Scherle said he asked the 1,300 Sons to leave here and seek leaders said they will go. He said he does not know where they will go.

The Sons are living in a Seventh-Day Adventist summer camp and the Adventists want the camp back before the pipes freeze, said Mr. Scherle.

Friendship Theme as Talks Between Mac, JFK Begin

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan stressed close United States-British friendship in a meeting today under a brilliant sun.

A crowd estimated at 2,500—Bahamians and visitors—watched from the flag-decked airport balcony and sidewalks as Kennedy's jet airliner rolled to a stop shortly before 11 a.m.

The plane had twice overturned Windsor field to kill time, having made a fast flight of less than two hours from Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland, near Washington.

Macmillan expressed pleasure at the weather here, a warm contrast with fall conditions in both Washington and London.

The prime minister said he had met 16 times with American presidents and he had found that "the most important and vital element of all such conferences was the close association between our two countries."

He reminded Kennedy that Britain and the U.S. have been through "much together in the past" and said they looked forward with high hopes to the future.

Kennedy responded warmly to Macmillan's welcome, recalling that this is their sixth meeting during his own two years in the presidency. (See also page 5.)

The president said he was not sure the world was much better off after each of their meetings, but that he had benefited greatly from "the counsel and friendship you have shown to me."

Kennedy also said he believed they did better with their talks when they had met in a warm climate and he described New Providence Island, site of the Bahama capital of Nassau, as a fitting place for this conference, "an island in the sun."

The president is staying at the home of Toronto financier E. P. Taylor, in the luxurious Lyford Cay development. Macmillan is staying next door at the home of Mrs. W. R. C. Holt.

The original plan for the conference of Macmillan and Kennedy was for a general survey of the world after the Cuban crisis.

But that crisis has since been overshadowed by the Skybolt issue, a crucial one in Britain's budgetary planning, and divisions within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization such as European resistance to the American idea that ground forces should be built up to levels adequate for defence in conventional warfare.

The London Daily Mail reports Macmillan will ask Kennedy for a "stay of execution" of the Skybolt decision for at least three months.

This delay would enable Britain still to claim she is a nuclear power as she faces the six-nation European Common Market in the hard bargaining still coming up over her admission to the trading bloc.

Shipping Through West Coast Ports

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Another big sale of Canadian wheat to Communist China has been concluded, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton announced in the Commons today.

He said the latest deal—the seventh within the long-term agreement with China— involves $65,000,000 worth of wheat. This amounts to 870,000 long tons.

It will all be shipped through west coast ports during the first half of 1963, Mr. Hamilton said. He made his statement in response to a query from Tom Berger (NDP, Vancouver-Burrard).

The minister indicated the deal had been closed some time ago by saying he had been waiting for some member of the opposition to ask about further grain sales to Red China.

Payment for the wheat will be in sterling, as all other payments have been.

The new deal includes relaxed credit provisions for China. China still pays 25 per cent cash down, but instead of having only nine months to repay the balance, China has a year, a three-month extension.

China had pressed for easier credit terms because other countries—notably Australia—gave easier credit.

The $65 million worth of wheat comes to 34,000,000 bushels.

The long-term agreement calls for purchase of up to 186.7 million bushels of wheat by China. Contracts signed to date, said Mr. Hamilton, account for 145 million bushels.

The transaction is within the $100 million credit guarantee extended by the government by the wheat board to facilitate sales.

The disarmament conference resumes here on January 15. At the closing meeting of the test-ban subcommittee the United States called on the Soviet Union to take part in a detailed scientific review of the black box proposal.

The Western powers refuse to accept a ban on underground tests unless the Russians allow a certain number of on-site inspections a year to prevent cheating. The Russians have consistently rejected any on-site inspection, but have proposed the erection of three "black box" detectors in the Soviet Union to help keep check of suspicious earth tremors.

Face Fact of Two Tongues Pearson Warns Commons

By STEWART MACLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—A national crisis looms over Canada, the Commons was told Friday.

To avert it, Canadians must come to grips with the fact they live in a bicultural country.

Opposition Leader Pearson said the federal government should confer with the provinces in an effort to establish a full inquiry into Canada's bilingual problems.

Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny said the federal government had already taken steps in this connection. A Dominion-provincial conference would be called early in the new year to discuss national symbols.

"As long as the Canadian nation has not rallied around these symbols... we shall continue to see demonstrations such as the ones recently involving the president of Confederation CNR (Donald Gordon)," he said.

Real Caouette, deputy leader of the Social Credit party, said Mr. Pearson "delivered the best speech of his career."

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North Centre) said his party would give wholehearted support to efforts to establish mutual respect between the two cultures.

Mr. Pearson had said that the time was past for papering over the cracks in unity, and it was necessary to revert to the principles of Confederation—"our declaration of faith in the destiny of a united Canada."

English-Canadians needed shock treatment to realize what was going on in Quebec and to support the work of the Unitarian Service Committee in India through the Times appeal.

The USC engages in relief and rehabilitation work in some of the most poverty-stricken parts of that country. And to continue the work the USC relies on public contributions from Canadians.

Contributions should be sent to "Friendship Dollars for India," c/o The Times, 2631 Douglas, or should be left at the Bank of Montreal, Douglas and Yates.

The Times will publish an acknowledgement of all donations and the USC will send an official receipt later for income tax purposes.

For Some, No Gifts Off the Tree

When the annual Sunday School party at St. Albans Anglican Church is held a couple of days after Christmas almost all the children will get gifts off a Christmas tree.

But there will be children from two classes for whom there will not be any gifts. They said they didn't want any this year.

Instead they gave the money that would have been spent on the gifts to the Times appeal for "Friendship Dollars for India."

The idea of giving a donation to the appeal instead of receiving Christmas presents was put to the children by their teachers, Mrs. A. E. Miller, 1439 Myrtle Ave. and her daughter, Miss Doris Miller.

There were hardly any objections and not one of the youngsters in the six-to-eight group had to be coaxed at all. They all wanted to participate in the donation for the less fortunate children of India.

And just as these youngsters want to help, so help is also coming from the very old. Nathan E. Watts of Sidney, who was 95 years old last July, has sent a $5 donation to the Times appeal.

These people, and all the others who have so far given a total of $7,367 this year, realize how worthwhile it is to support the work of the Unitarian Service Committee in India through the Times appeal.

Test Ban Talks Given Up

GENEVA (AP)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union abandoned their efforts today to negotiate an end to nuclear testing by Jan. 1.

The three-power test ban subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference held its last meeting before the conference goes into a Christmas recess.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin told the last three-power meeting that all the nuclear powers should stop testing by January 1 "regardless of whether we can reach agreement by that date or not."

Western officials said they regarded this as another hint that Russia is planning to declare a one-sided test suspension before the end of the year.

The Western powers refuse to accept a ban on underground tests unless the Russians allow a certain number of on-site inspections a year to prevent cheating. The Russians have consistently rejected any on-site inspection, but have proposed the erection of three "black box" detectors in the Soviet Union to help keep check of suspicious earth tremors.
